

A visit to murder site: just litter and whistling wind

By JOHN H. COBB
Of The Press Staff

The wind whistled through the broken windows and the holes in the roof and walls. As one walked through the dilapidated, burned out farm building it was impossible not to wonder what strange and hideous events may have taken place there recently.

Beer cans, both old and recent newspapers, gum wrappers and packages of film laid strewn over the farm yard where lovers had parked . . . and police had investigated.

The house was where a sweater belonging to 13-year-old Dawn Basom was reported found. Inside stood exposed wiring of the type used to strangle the young girl several days ago.

Was this the last place the girl was brought alive? Was this the murder scene? Only two persons know for sure, the murderer and Miss Basom . . . only she is unable to talk.

What else did police find in the building? Were there signs of a struggle? It would be difficult to tell. The inside of the fire damaged building is cluttered with fallen plaster and broken boards. In what once was the living room is the only piece of furniture left in the building . . . an old pillowless couch.

Were there signs of other crimes committed at the scene? Only the police know. In the second floor hay loft of a nearby barn was a copy of an April 17, 1969, newspaper carefully laid out.

The house which came under close scrutiny by police is owned by E. R. Bryant, of Dearborn, a retired automobile dealer. It had been vacant since it was damaged by fire in July 1967.

The back portion of the house, the kitchen and part of the roof, was burned. Bryant last saw the house last Saturday, but didn't inspect it. Dawn Basom was killed Tuesday night.

Prior to that, he had inspected it last fall. The building has been vacant during the entire two-year span covered by the five mysterious murders in the Ypsilanti-Ann Arbor area.

One week after the building had been damaged by fire, it was the scene of a shooting between rival motorcycle gangs which resulted in four injuries and 25 arrests. The shooting "war" apparently was the result of an inter-gang rivalry.

Mr. Bryant had owned the farm of 500 acres for about 20 years. He now leases the land, which is used to grow corn and wheat.

Police speculate that whoever killed the 5 young women, was someone with a good knowledge of the area. All the bodies were found in rural areas, yet placed where they would be found easily.

Four were found within five miles or less of the deserted farm house. Only Jane L. Mixer was different—she was in Wayne County, just over the Washtenaw County line.

Were the brutal murders committed by one man, by two men, by a man with a woman acting as a decoy to pick up the girls, or done by one or more women? Police don't know.

Doll discarded As killing clue

The sudden appearance yesterday of a child's doll, dressed only in a ragged white blouse apparently has no connection with the most recent death of a young girl.

A telephone call received at The Press this morning from a mother indicated that her children had found the doll while playing and placed it on the barbed wire two weeks ago.

She said the doll was found in a pile of garbage and left on the fence by her children. It was noticed yesterday morning by a newspaper photographer who found the doll strung up on a barbed wire fence on Cherry Hill Rd. east of Prospect Rd.

Although this is in same general area, it is considerably east of the area where the last body was found.

Earlier, Undersheriff

Harold J. Owings, Jr., said the doll was found "too close to the murder scene to be written off" and that it may have been more than a "sick joke. On the other hand, we don't know. It may have been there for a week or more. We just don't know," he said yesterday.

Grasping at straws, police had hoped that the doll had some connection between its discovery and the death of 13-year-old Dawn Basom, of 1312 LeForge Rd., whose body was found Wednesday morning. She was lying beside Gale Rd., clad only in a ripped white short sleeved blouse.

Funeral services for the West Junior High 8th grader were held today, with burial in Forest Hill Cemetery.

As police continue the difficult task of checking out the many clues, efforts continue to entice citizens to come forward with any information they may have concerning any of the recent deaths.

Washtenaw County Prosecutor William F. Delhey and Sheriff Douglas J. Harvey have pleaded with anyone who has the slightest information to bring it to any local police agency. They guaranteed confidence to any person supplying information.

Reward monies have been greatly increased with the latest murder. The Press offered $1,000 reward Thursday for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the murderer.

The Ypsilanti city council put up $5,000, and the Ypsilanti Savings Bank offered $1,000 yesterday in hopes that it might aid police in their investigation. Last month the Ann Arbor City Council set aside $7,500 for Police Chief Walter Krasny's use in his investigation into the death of Maralynn Skelton.

With the local reward amounting to $7,000 in Ypsilanti and $7,500 in Ann Arbor, the total offered now stands at better than $24,500. A Detroit newspaper also has offered $10,000 in the five deaths.

A weary Sheriff Harvey said that no new information has come up in the investigation. Teams of detectives are working both night and day on the latest murder. Sheriff Harvey said Friday there have been no new discoveries of any more of the girl's missing clothing.

Driver ticketed

LEE, Ill. (AP) — A woman motorist survived a collision between her car and a freight train Friday but got a ticket for not being careful.

A car driven by Minnie E. Shoemith, 71, hit the front of an Illinois Central Freight and bounded into a crossing signal standard. She was unhurt.

Police gave her a ticket charging she disregarded flashing signal lights and ringing bells and drove onto the crossing.

Digging to help stem flooding

It may irk drivers now, but construction of a sanitary sewer overflow chamber on N. Huron St. at Washtenaw Ave. will step up the drainage capacities and help stop the back up problem on Pearl St. during severe rain storms. — Press Photo

New Czech leader tells Kremlin foes to cool it

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's new Communist party chief declared political war on those who do not toe the Kremlin line, but informants said today the chief, Gustav Husak, made some concessions to get the support of liberals in government.

One source said Husak got all but five votes of the 190-member Central Committee, which ousted reformist party chief Alexander Dubcek in a secret ballot Thursday. Informants cited these reasons for his strong showing:

—Husak assured Dubcek supporters he would not, for now, accept the Soviet invasion as justified.

—He assured reformers political arrests will not be made for any "violations" committed prior to his assumption of power.

Despite these concessions, few doubted that Czechoslovakia is in for a more authoritarian brand of communism under the 56-year-old Slovak. The news agency CTK today circulated Husak's first major foreign policy address, made at the Thursday-Friday Central Committee session, in which he promised to "take up the glove" against rightists and anti-Soviet elements.

"We shall not back down . . . We shall not call it child's play, but a struggle, and I am absolutely sure of political victory," said Husak. "Anti-Sovietism is incompatible with the ideology of this party. It is in sharp contradiction to the state policy of this state."

He repeated criticism that the Dubcek regime had allowed "anti-Communist" elements to plunge Czechoslovakia into a crisis.

"Where can it lead if our Central Committee and central organs do not intervene?" he asked. "To what aim? To civil war?"

"Should we wait until somebody provokes the Soviet troops on our territory into taking some action in their defense?"

Husak also condemned independent tendencies in the Czechoslovak labor unions and the network of alliances between workers and students. He warned that communists in the unions will be expected to follow party discipline.

In University Hospital:

Triangle ends with killing

ANN ARBOR — A man was shot to death today in a University of Michigan Hospital lounge in what police said apparently was the climax of a love-triangle.

Killed by multiple wounds from a .45-caliber pistol was Thames Karademos, 46, of Wyandotte.

Jailed on an open charge of murder was John Witt, 50, of Taylor Center.

Reconstructing the scene, police said Karademos apparently was sitting with Witt's estranged wife, Dorothy S., in an 11th-floor lounge when Witt walked in and found them together.

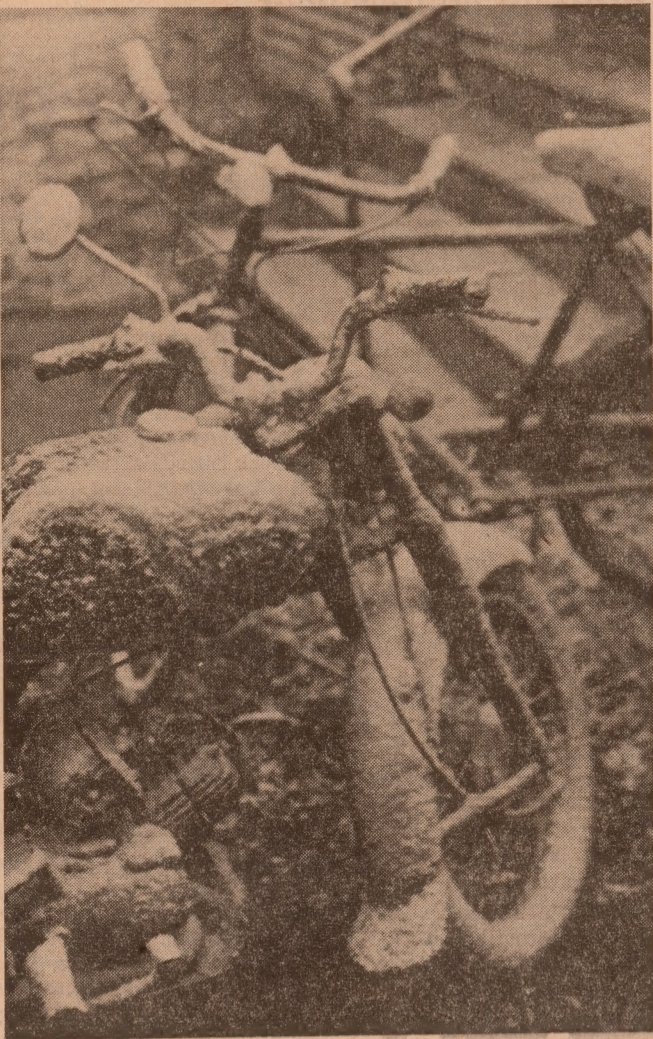

All three had gone to the hospital to visit the Witts quadruplegic 15-year-old son, Jeffrey, seriously ill of pneumonia and complications.

Young Witt's arms and legs are paralyzed. Mrs. Witt and Karademos arrived earlier. Witt arrived about 4 a.m. Karademos was pronounced dead at 4:15 a.m.

Police said Karademos apparently was dragged from the lounge after the first shot and shot repeatedly in a hallway. They said the automatic with which he was slain apparently had been fired six times.

The gun was thrown out a window and later retrieved by police, who said hospital authorities told them that Witt asked that police be called and surrendered himself upon their arrival.

Police said the Witts were separated, but as far as they could ascertain not divorced.

Snow surprises early risers

Although it didn't last long, about a half-inch of snow greeted Ypsilanti residents and some bike owners, when they went outside this morning. The weather bureau at Metropolitan Airport had .3-inch of moisture in the form of sleet. — Press Photo

Flood damage Hits $31 million

By The Associated Press
Officials estimated flood waters have caused $31 million damage so far in three Midwestern states, and one official said he felt people in an area downstream were treating the coming flood crests too lightly.

Civil defense and state officials made these preliminary flood damage estimates:

—$5 million in Minnesota, where 700 families were still homeless.

—$19 million in South Dakota, where 5,000 families were evacuated and 1,000 remain homeless.

—At least $7 million in North Dakota.

And the Civil Defense coordinator for northwestern Illinois says residents in his area, where the Mississippi is due to crest April 28, are taking the situation lightly.

"There's been so much publicity given protective works," said Donald E. Lemme, "that people believe all they have to do is sweat this thing out."

Lemme said Friday that apathy in the Quad Cities area could cause trouble—the kind seen in 1965 when the Quad Cities alone suffered $8.5 million in damages. The Quad Cities area includes Davenport, Iowa; Rock Island, Moline and East Moline, Ill.

The problem, Lemme said is a shortage of volunteers to patrol the dikes to watch for washouts.

Meanwhile, at Minot, N.D., the Souris, which has forced one third of the city's residents from their homes, the crest is still a week away.

The Red River of the North, which already has crested at communities of North Dakota and Minnesota, remained an expanded placid mirror.

"The damndest lake you ever saw—150 miles long and 8 miles wide," remarked one Red Cross worker helping refugees from its floodwaters which covered an estimated 210,000 acres of farmland.

Spy protection:

Navy boosts Japan fleet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Potent U.S. naval forces, including the battleship New Jersey and possibly a pair of aircraft carriers, were reported steaming to new positions today to provide protection for American intelligence missions off North Korea.

The Pentagon announced redeployment of extensive forces Friday shortly after President Nixon ordered resumption of reconnaissance flights with the promise they will cease to be "fair game" for North Korean jets.

Flights off the North Korean coast were halted Tuesday after an EC121 reconnaissance plane with 31 men aboard apparently was shot down. Only two bodies have been found in the Sea of Japan where the craft fell.

Redeployment of the naval forces was viewed as a protective step rather than a threat of retaliation against North Korea.

The New Jersey, which had been scheduled to arrive in Long Beach, Calif., today after duty off Vietnam, was ordered to turn around and return to the Western Pacific.

While no announcement was made of the strategy to be used in providing protection for the reconnaissance planes, indications were fighters would be stationed where they could come to the swift rescue of any threatened U.S. aircraft. Fighters would be kept in the air during intelligence missions, but not flying wing-to-wing with the reconnaissance aircraft.

Except for the New Jersey, the Pentagon did not say what ships were involved and the announcement stopped short of specifying the new positions actually were in the Sea of Japan. A Defense Department spokesman said only the redeployment involved "a number of different types of vessels."

One carrier believed on the way to the Sea of Japan is the USS Kittyhawk which carries 90 warplanes. The Kittyhawk left Hong Kong with two destroyers earlier this week without any announcement of its destination.

In ordering resumption of the intelligence flights, Nixon pronounced them vital to the security of U.S. troops stationed in South Korea.

Nixon revealed for the first time that the United States is capable of "reading" radar pictures of another country from miles away.

He said both showed that the EC121 was 90 miles offshore — well outside North Korean territory—when shot down.

Tornado Kills man In Florida

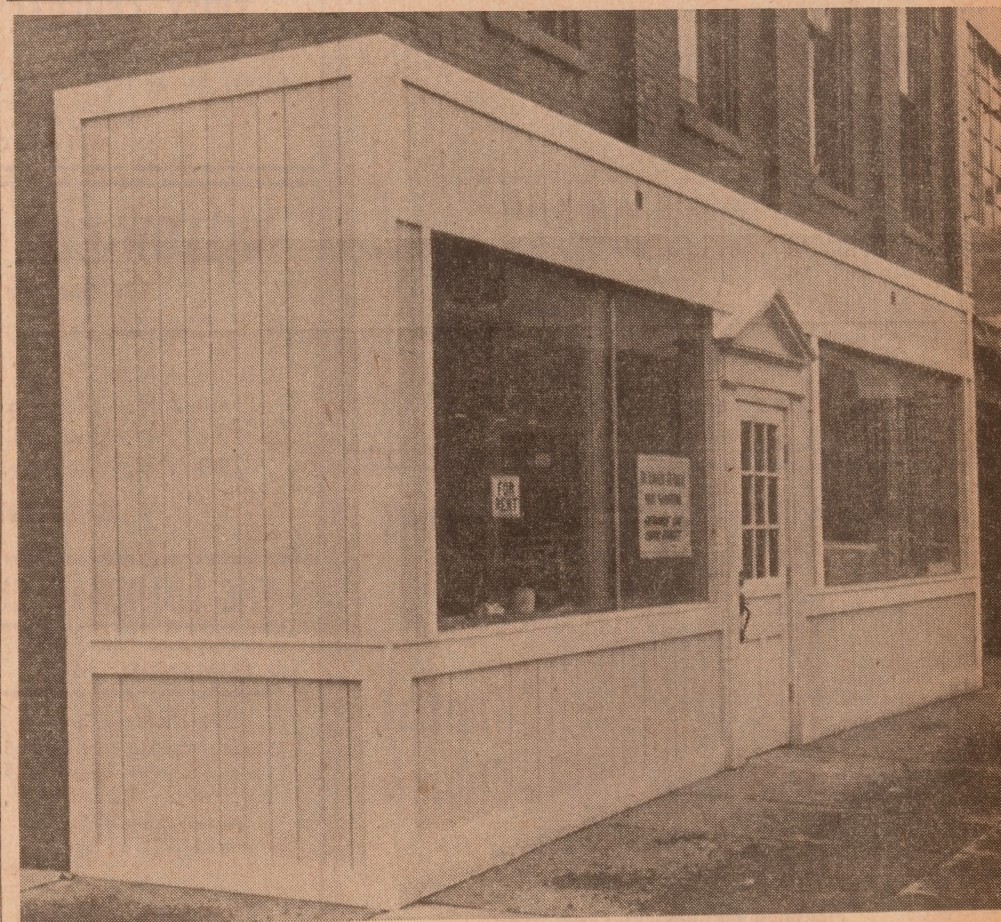

MAITLAND, Fla. (AP)—A tornado cut a path of destruction through Maitland and a man drowned off a wind-swamped boat in Orlando today as a growing line of thunderstorms bulled through this Central Florida area.

The body of 23-year-old David M. Dolon was recovered several hours after a boat capsized on Lake Ivanhoe. Five other persons swam to shore and another who clung to the boat was rescued.

The tornado, lashing out of the parade of thunderstorms, collapsed homes and buildings, knocked out power lines, and blocked streets with fallen trees as it skipped through Maitland, touching down three times.

Only one woman, struck in the head by a flying window screen, was known to be injured, but police and sheriff's deputies were making a house-to-house search for other possible casualties.

Police Chief Jay Golder estimated the damage in excess of $200,000, and possibly up to $1 million.

Downtown office remodeled

Extensive interior and exterior work is under way at an office building located at W. Michigan Ave. and N. Adams St. Owned by Rodney E. Hutchinson and Jack Wiard, the building now houses the offices of Dr. Howard Reznick and will have an additional office on the ground floor and two or three new spaces on the second floor. Remodeling work includes a new entrance on N. Adams St. and a new front on Michigan Ave. Exterior work is completed, except for shutters and trim. —Press Photo

Las Vegas dust Blinds drivers

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Gustling winds blew so much desert dust into Las Vegas Friday that for several hours motorists had to use headlights during the daytime. The winds registered 61 miles an hour at times.

Church scholars assess trends

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — A shrinkage in the church's monolithic forms ... the growth of varied, unofficial Christian movements ... a fading of denominationalism ... increasing social involvement ... sharpened theological thought and awareness of God's sovereignty. These are coming characteristics of Christianity by the end of the century as foreseen by a number of leading church scholars.

Looking ahead for the next 25 years, some of them also offer differing assessments and uncertainties, where the pendulum could swing either way. Most expect a decline in bulk membership, but intensified quality and disciplined life styles.

Among other varying predictions:

—An overshadowing atmosphere of technology and secularization, which will both reduce religion's popular appeal, yet clarify the nature of its demands and values.

—A potential alienation of the church's predominant middle class membership.

—A maturing social commitment, yet as physical goals are met, a turn toward greater intellectual-theological concerns.

—A rising tide of so-called "underground" churches or informal, unofficial religious movements alongside trimmed-down institutional structures.

A "church in diaspora." Several analysts have projected it, in a phrase coined by German Catholic theologian Karl Rahner, foreseeing a future when present downward statistical trends have reduced Christianity to a smaller, scattered minority.

"Massive church blocks will be gone, eroded," says the Rev. Dr. Johannes C. Hoekendijk, of Dutch Reformed theologian, of New York's Union Seminary. "There will be fewer and fewer related to church life ... There will be also this whole trend to the 'underground church.'"

He and others offered their predictions in the current issue of World Outlook, a Methodist journal in a special issue on "Mission in the Year 2000." Many of their expectations parallel those voiced increasingly by many church thinkers in this country and abroad.

"Secularization will continue," says Dr. Peter L. Berger, a Lutheran lay theologian and sociologist of the New School for Social Research here, making for fewer "religious people," yet putting the religious challenge in sharper focus.

"There are both fortunate and unfortunate aspects to secularization," he says.

Its negative effect is to obscure "religious entities," causing a "certain loss of reality," he says. "People become closed to reality and to aspects of their own experience. There is a trivialization of mystery, of ecstasy and of awe, and resulting impoverishment."

Yet at the same time, he says, secularization eliminates the tendency for religion to "be taken for granted; it is not part of the accepted baggage. Secularization forces people to make choices and makes for a better situation in which to confront the religious options clearly."

The Rev. Dr. Albert Outler, of Methodism's Perkins School of Theology in Dallas, says the modern secular preoccupations of the church may be running down.

"It would seem to me that we are at the point now where we have shot our wad in trying to play 'world' and we might recognize that the church has a distinctive role ...," he says. "There is a need for theologizing, for worship, and most of all for a disciplined style of life."

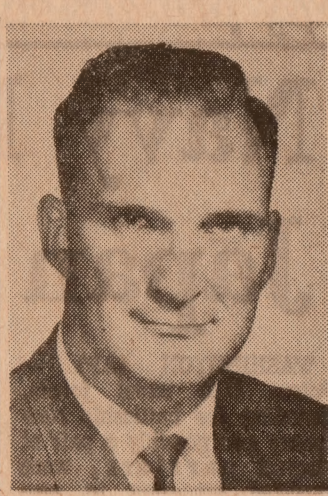

With the current overwhelming emphasis on social action, he says he fears the church may "be in the process of losing its middle-class constituency ... They are generally fed up with the general disposition of the church to scold them rather than to minister to them."

Fund drive 'Kick-off' set

The Rawsonville Community Baptist Church, 2960 Morris Ave., will begin their $450,000 Building Program with a "Kick-off" Banquet at the Belleville Junior High School cafeteria tonight at 6:30.

The program for the evening will consist of special music by the church quartet and a duet by the former youth pastor and his wife, the Rev. and Mrs. Ed Willaba now pastor of the First Baptist Church of Wadams, and a message by Paul Vanaman, dean of administration, Midwestern Baptist College in Pontiac and pastor of the Dixie Baptist Church in Clarkston.

Also included in the program will be the unveiling and first presentation of the architect's conception of the new auditorium and additional office and class room facilities. A scale model of the new facilities will be present to give the members and friends a visible perception of the building.

Among the special guests will be the Ypsilanti architect Robert MacMullan, the church's financial consultant, Robert Ervin of Evangelical Finance Corporation of Sterling Heights and representatives of Ypsilanti Savings Bank.

The 350 members of the church hope to be using the new facility by Jan. 1, 1970.

Pastor of the church is the Rev. J. O. Phillips.

Martin Luther, the German leader of the Protestant Reformation, while still a young student found a sentence in the New Testament that became his life's doctrine. "... The just shall live by faith." (Romans 1, 17). It served him well during his difficult life. An Augustinian monk and a Doctor of Divinity, Luther was professor of Theology and district vicar at the University of Wittenberg when he realized he could not accept some of the actions of the church. He did not approve of money being offered for indulgences being granted by the Pope. He made his objections public by nailing his protest to the door of All Saints Church at Wittenberg. The protest became famous as the Ninety-Five Thesis. It was not his intention to break away from the church—only to bring about reforms. He wrote three pamphlets making known his beliefs, which brought about his being banned by the Pope. At the Diet of Worms in 1521 he was condemned by the Emperor as a heretic. Luther spent 10 months under the protection of his good friend Frederick, Elector of Saxony at the castle of the Wartburg. There he translated the New Testament from the original Greek to German. Upon his return to Wittenberg the rest of his life was spent actively reforming the new church, setting up a new church government. He introduced singing by the congregation and wrote many great hymns of faith. Martin Luther, against great odds, lived by his faith. He wrote, "Faith is God's work within us. It transmutes us and makes for our rebirth in God."

State family league formed

Formation of the Michigan Committee for Social Legislation (MCSL), an inter-faith organization committed to strengthening the family as the basic unit of society, was announced this week.

Chairman of the new organization is Dr. Edwin Weber of Fraser, President of the Michigan District of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod.

Dr. Weber said the increase in divorce, delinquency, crime and general indifference to moral values in many aspects of family and social living requires everyone to look again, hard and long, at the causes and the possible remedies of these symptoms of a weakening society.

Members of the MCSL's Board include the Most Reverend Alexander M. Zaleski, Bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Lansing; Rt. Rev. Thomas J. Rubbin, President of the Council of Eastern Orthodox Churches of Greater Detroit; Rabbi Joshua Sperka of Oak Park, Secretary-Treasurer of the Council of Orthodox Rabbis of Detroit; Dr. James H. Beason of Grand Rapids and Dr. Joseph Caruso of Lansing.

Also Mrs. Jesse Kennedy, Regional Superintendent of the Detroit Public Schools; Mrs. Harold Schachern, A Detroit housewife; Paul Weber of Royal Oak, Director of Public Relations for the Michigan Consolidated Gas Co.; George Merrelli of Mt. Clemens, a Regional Director of the United Auto Workers (UAW) union; Arthur Barkey of Detroit, an attorney; Mrs. Frank Cousens, a Grosse Pointe housewife, and Mrs. John J. Casey of Midland, a housewife who is a member of the Board of Directors of the Michigan Catholic Conference.

Spiritualists To convene

Believers and promoters in "psychic phenomena," the process of communicating with the spirit world through the powers of a medium will convene in Detroit for a convention April 25 to 27.

Religious services of the denomination called Spiritual Churches of Science and Revelation will be open to the public.

Approximately 750 persons are expected to attend.

Rezoning Requests Studied

Planning Commission is considering a steady flow of petitions for rezoning.

A public hearing has been set for Tuesday night on the allowance of duplex housing on 23.5 acres of land on the south side of W. Michigan Ave. at its intersection with Ellsworth Rd. Also to be considered is the rezoning of 2.7 acres on Ellis Rd. near Canyon Dd. from farming to rural residence.

Planning Commission members also will discuss an all-condominium apartment plan for the northwest corner of Hewitt and Ellsworth Rds. They will meet with a representative of the Howland-Alder Realty Co. of Detroit.

Also on the table will be a review of the Pineview Estates subdivision and the rezoning of nine lots at the north end of Ohio St. to allow for multiple family dwellings.

The commission also has scheduled public hearings for May 13 on the rezoning of four other parcels of land.

Petitions ask that areas on Rawsonville Rd., near Martz Rd., and on Martz Rd. near McKean Rd., and an acre north of the corner of Bemis and Munger Rds. be changed from farming to rural residential, and that property at the northwest corner of Grove Rd. and McCartney St. be rezoned from residential to commercial.

Wrong job

The occupation of Mayor Protem Jeffrey V. Brookshire was erroneously listed in The Press earlier this week as being a salesman with Obermeyer Realty. Brookshire is sales manager of Landmark Realty, owned by Max A. Obermeyer Jr.

New Ypsilanti directory Distribution under way

Ypsilanti is getting a new city directory. Including a story of the city of Ypsilanti, classified pages, an alphabetical list of residents, a directory of householders and a numerical household guide, the directory is now being delivered to subscribers by the R. L. Polk Co.

The classified pages list 287 different kinds of enterprises, ranging from accountants to wreckers. Eugene Aaron and Jack Zwin are the first and last names appearing in the alphabetical section.

A special feature is the listing of the names of wives and the designation of the heads of households.

The householders section, in addition to showing locations of streets and who lives or does business at each house number, denotes the homes that are owned by the occupants thereof, the homes that are rented, lists telephone numbers and Zip Codes.

The numerical telephone guide is a list of the telephone subscribers arranged by numerical progression of telephone numbers.

The new city directory will represent Ypsilanti to outsiders, when distributed to replace the 1967 edition in free reference directory libraries maintained at Chambers of Commerce in other cities. This service is operated by the Association of North American Directory Publishers.

Ford honors 4 from city

Burton wins 'top citizen' award

Four persons from Ypsilanti and four from nearby cities, were honored last night at the Ford Motor Company's 14th annual Community Services Awards program for outstanding community service.

"Paul Revere's Ride" was the theme of the program because the date marked the 194th anniversary of that event. Dr. Richard L. Cutler, special assistant to the president for urban affairs at the University of Michigan, was the guest speaker. His topic was "Wake Up America."

Former Ypsilanti Mayor John H. Burton was one of four persons from Ypsilanti who were honored. They were among eight cited at the program, conducted by Ford's Ypsilanti - Rawsonville Community Relations Committee in the Statler-Hilton Inn at Ann Arbor.

The highest award, the "citizen of the year" Town Crier Bell, went to Burton, of 206 S. Adams St., who recently completed 20 years as an Ypsilanti councilman.

Also honored were Raymond H. Gorlitz of 1993 Whitaker Rd., Mrs. Winifred R. Parker of 397 Second Ave., and Robert H. Sly of 1544 Leona St.

Others were William R. Assenmacher of Monroe, Mrs. Barbara L. Ford of 155 Annwood St., Saline, Jake M. Haag Jr. of Norvell, and Mrs. Marjorie A. Williams of 1451 Hartough St., Plymouth.

Burton's wife, Willie, is an employee at Ford's Ypsilanti plant. In addition to serving as Ypsilanti mayor and councilman, he has been a member of the Washtenaw County Board of Supervisors, served on advisory committees at Wayne State University, the U-M Dearborn campus, Eastern Michigan University and Washtenaw Community College. He is active in urban affairs and is a member of the National Urban Coalition Committee.

The distinction of being the first youth in the nation to receive a Ford Community Service award went to young Assenmacher, 18-year-old son of Robert W. Assenmacher of Monroe. His father is an Ypsilanti plant production control foreman.

A senior at Monroe Catholic Central High School, he has taught crippled and retarded children each Saturday in his parish church and has been active in youth organizations and in fund-raising for the cancer fund. He has been a member of his high school's student council for four years and has been president of his class.

Mrs. Ford is the wife of Cecil Ford, a quality control inspector at the Ypsilanti plant. She has been active with the Saline Elementary School Parents Association and served as chairman of its carnival committee. She is a room mother chairman at Jensen School, a Sunday school teacher and Cub Scout den mother.

Gorlitz, a plant security man at the Rawsonville plant, was honored for his work as a committee chairman with the Ypsilanti Optimist Club, a board member of the Ypsilanti Boys' Club, as a precinct worker for the Republican party, fund-raising for the Archdiocesan Development Fund and is secretary of his Knights of Columbus council.

Mrs. Parker is the secretary to the production manager at the Ypsilanti plant. She has been active in civic affairs as a member and secretary of the Ypsilanti Citizens' Advisory Committee and as secretary of the city's housing sub-committee. She also serves as secretary to Project 65, a citizens' group concerned with community improvement on Ypsilanti's south side.

Mr. Sly, a plant industrial engineer at the Rawsonville plant, was cited for his work with the Ypsilanti Junior Chamber of Commerce and with other groups. He is treasurer and a past director of the Jaycees as well as a recipient of the "Jaycee of the Year" award. He is a district organization chairman for the Boy Scouts, chairman of the Community Blood Club and co-chairman of the building committee for St. Matthew's United Methodist Church.

Possible Kidnaping Unsolved

Police agencies from two counties were involved in a search yesterday for a car bearing Texas license plates believed involved in a possible abduction.

Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies said they received word of the possible abduction at 2:45 p.m. It was reported that three Mexican men picked up a woman at Willis Rd. and US-23 freeway and forced her into their car.

The vehicle was last seen headed north on US-23 at a high rate of speed, according to reports. It was described as a red Chevrolet convertible with a white top, bearing Texas license no. PH 785.

Livingston County Sheriff's deputies said the car was not apprehended in their county. State Police also assisted in the search.

Police were unable to determine the identity of the victim or to find any more information about the incident.

Rites set For Wayne Marine

Last rites will be held Monday for S-Sgt. Gerald P. Porta of Wayne, a career marine killed April 8 on a search and clear mission in Vietnam.

He was the 25-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Porta of 3315 Clark St. in Wayne.

He leaves a wife, Judy, and two children, Sherri, 4, and Anthony R. II, one.

Services will be held at 9:30 a.m. Monday in Lents Funeral Home in Wayne and at 10 a.m. in St. Mary's Catholic Church. Burial will be in the Holy Sepulchre Cemetery in Southfield.

The sergeant was killed near Da Nang.

YM-YWCA starts Expansion drive

The YM-YWCA launched its $700,000 expansion fund campaign at a dinner meeting last night in Ann Arbor.

Expansion plans for the facility on S. Fifth Ave. in Ann Arbor, which was built in 1960, call for providing room for an instructional swimming pool, two more exercise rooms, a fourth locker room, two handball courts and a squash court.

CARL J. ARVIN has resigned as chairman of the Washtenaw County Social Services Board. He said his job as manager of the Ann Arbor office of the Automobile Club of Michigan did not permit him the necessary time to devote to the area's rising welfare problems. He was the senior member of the board, having served on it for more than 20 years.

Supervisors Eye eased Sheriff rift

The Law Enforcement Committee of the Washtenaw County Board of Supervisors has invited the state attorney general, the commander of the Michigan State Police and the president of the state Sheriffs' Association to meet with their local counterparts in Ann Arbor on April 22.

Committee members said it is hoped that the session will help the committee, which has been in conflict with Sheriff Douglas J. Harvey, to better understand the functions of a sheriff's department and to learn how other governmental bodies get along with their police agencies.

Ann Arbor joins Navy League

Ann Arbor will be formally chartered as the nation's newest council of the Navy League at 6 p.m. Wednesday in the Statler-Hilton Ambassador.

Captain Joseph R. Tenanty, special assistant to Admiral Thomas H. Morrer, Chief of Naval Operations, will be the keynote speaker.

MEMO FROM A CAR DEALER

DOES TAKING GOOD CARE OF YOUR CAR PAY OFF?

GENE BUTMAN

It surely does — and the pay-off time is not only when you trade it in. It is during its driving life: in safety, reduced costs and the pure pleasure of a better ride.

Neglect in a new car begins when the glamour wears off — after the first three months and is worst in the UNSEEN components the driver is not immediately aware of.

What most motorists don't recognize is that all moving parts wear to the same degree as the tires and engine. The result of neglect is eventual breakdown.

In simple dollars and cents terms, if you wait for breakdowns to remind you of maintenance requirements, the rule of thumb is that you normally increase repair expense two thirds over what you would otherwise pay.

Simple recognition that oil and grease are far, far cheaper than machined parts is a good place to start, since this neglect is the most common and expensive of all.

Then give regular thought to your front wheel balance and alignment. Adequate maintenance here will save your tires, make for a safer and more comfortable ride and even save you gasoline. The same advantages — and penalties — apply to shock absorbers and a hundred other items.

The resale market value of a well-maintained car over a neglected one cannot be stated specifically in general, but it is not uncommon for condition to reflect a two to five hundred dollar price differential.

See you next Saturday.

Willow Run school voters Have only 1 choice — 'Yes'

An issue of great importance to the Ypsilanti community, and especially each and every resident of the Willow Run School District, will be democratically decided Tuesday.

The issue is whether the Willow Run Schools will continue to offer the type of educational program each child is entitled to, or whether the Willow Run district will become "second-rate" beginning in September.

Parents and other school district residents will go to the polls between 7 a.m. and 8 p.m. Tuesday to decide whether 14 mills will be levied to replace an operational levy which has expired after five years and whether 3 additional mills will be levied for two years to cover rising costs and enrollments.

Voters will be able to vote "Yes" or "No" on the 17-mill tax proposal, but they really have only one choice.

A similar taxing proposal, for 18 mills, was soundly defeated by voters of the school district in February. The millage plan was shaved down, and school officials and vitally interested parents have conducted an all-out campaign to inform all voters, emphasizing the importance of Tuesday's election.

Much of the open opposition to the passage of the millage appears to be centered on other than taxing issues. That is another reason the district residents have only one choice Tuesday — to vote "Yes" to preserve their community schools.

If residents have complaints and legitimate gripes against their school board or school administration, they should not be vented in a vote which will definitely and drastically downgrade the quality of education available.

These complaints should be brought up and aired at the appropriate places and times — school board meetings, PTA meetings, parent-teacher conferences, calls to school officials and to Board of Education members. The gripes can also be expressed at the elections each June when the citizenry picks its school board members.

Also, there seldom is an overabundance of candidates running for the school board.

Tuesday's election boils down to whether or not the Willow Run School District will be allowed to continue operating as a full-time public school system, or whether half the teaching staff shall be released and pupils placed on half-day sessions, with the corresponding cutback in the quantity and quality of education. That is all the election involves Tuesday; it should not be decided by arguments over teacher salaries, school construction, the administration or other issues.

In recent years Willow Run High athletic teams have climbed to the top in athletic competition; everyone was proud to say, "That's our school!" Should the millage election be defeated Tuesday, how proud of their schools will the residents be in six months?

Labor report

Labor leads fight to save Mark 87 from phase out

By VICTOR RIESEL
WASHINGTON — This is the requiem for the Mark 87 — a revolutionary system for placing and keeping guns on target. Perhaps this is also the requiem for the ghoulishness in South Vietnam, but basically this is the story of labor leaders in a unique role — lobbying for the revival of production of a gun fire control system which they say could have saved the Pueblo from capture and the S.S. Liberty from a mistaken, tragic attack in Middle East waters in June, 1967.

The well-tested but almost stillborn Mark 87, which combines radar and computers for a fully automatic means of locating, tracking and bringing down targets, is being phased out. Navy specialists, who say that other gun fire control systems are like bows and arrows compared to the Mark 87, add that they are grieved to report they have no more money for the fantastic air, land and sea range finder.

Thus, no orders to the 55-year-old Ford Instrument Co. installation in New York City, which produced the first two Mark 87s. Thus the company, which had been counting mightily on further contracts, has decided to phase out its plan. Thus its work force, a smooth mix of 900 technicians, engineers, white collar people, mathematical geniuses, electronic specialists, porters, typists, et al., also will be phased out this year.

This will wipe out the jobs of 900 employees, most of whom belong to Local 425, International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE). Its national leader is one of labor's younger newer breed, the militantly liberal Paul Jennings, who will make headlines later this fall when he leads the assault on the General Electric Co. and Westinghouse in the labor conflict of the year.

So the IUE's national leaders have taken to the Hill. They are visiting senators. They are pressuring congressmen. They plead for the Mark 87's survival and are armed with impressive technical literature.

I recall no such labor campaign for a piece of fighting equipment.

"The Mark 87 can easily be updated," says the IUE leadership, "and used in the future against any conceivable change of enemy weaponry... (it) is a highly efficient system and can outgun any other control system in the world."

... It can be reasonably stated that, if the Pueblo had been equipped with a Mark 87 guidance and two 3-inch guns, she would not have been taken... With the Mark 87 the Pueblo would have been able to blast the Korean ships out of the water before they could take any meaningful counteraction. The development and implementation of a broad Mark 87 program could save America from a repeat of the Pueblo crisis. Can the men who man the ships be denied this safety?

Recently, the Mark 87 was tested on a strange new aluminum-hulled ship, a glorified PT boat, for inshore and river fighting. There were so many on-target hits that the admiral ordered a rerun. He thought no target finder could be so consistently successful. There must have been an error in scoring. But there wasn't.

The union people, local and national, who have been pushing for at least 12 new 87s to keep the Ford Instrument plant going, talk of more than production costs, more than the spectacular accuracy of this fire control system's digital mechanism, which monitors itself regularly and then alerts the crew if it finds itself faulty.

The union people talk of the "mix" at the plant — the working team which will now be dispersed. They say that a Ford Instrument Co. piece of equipment is on virtually every Navy fighting ship. The union men, who've called only one 1-day strike in 32 years, talk of a different kind of picket line — the kind on which the local's members wait across the world to be summoned to repair electronic and computerized fighting mechanisms.

But it may be that the military and the White House are phasing out more than a target finder, fantastic as that bit of cybernetics may be. It may be that the Mark 87 is being beaten into more than bows and arrows. It may be ploughshares coming up.

Looking backward... Through The Press files

20 YEARS AGO
April 19, 1949 — More than 100 Ypsilanti Township electors jammed the township hall last night to give the go-ahead signal on plans for constructing a new township building.

Action authorized the township board to appropriate up to $120,000 for securing a site and erecting the structure.

Washtenaw County veterans groups aroused by reports of substandard living condition in Willow Village today prepared to seek a federal investigation.

50 YEARS AGO
April 19, 1919 — Harry

Shaefer was in Saline yesterday evening where he was in charge of a series of tableaux given for the benefit of the Victory Loan.

Constant watchfulness was rewarded at the county jail by the frustration of a desperate escape attempt by two men and a woman arrested earlier for liquor possession.

A pal of the prisoners had been casing the jail daily since the trio's arrest. When he drove up yesterday with several companions Sheriff Pack arrested them. He then found two hacksaws in their auto.

The prisoners, still anicipating the break, went along with their escape plan. But when they rushed the guards, the alerted deputies got the drop on them.

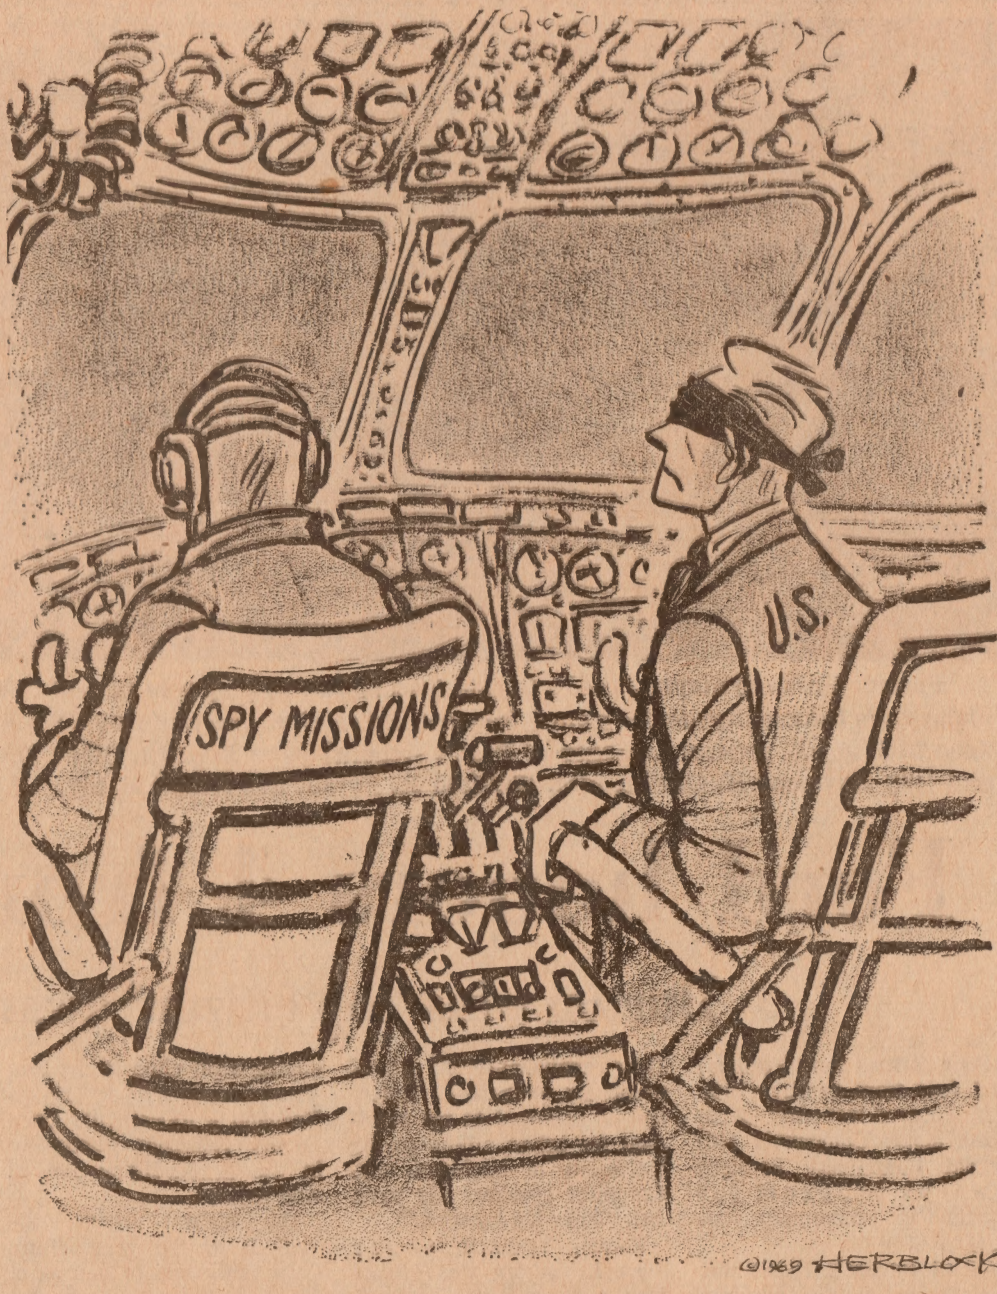

75 YEARS AGO
April, 1894 — Our recent rainstorm was a snowstorm in the Upper Peninsula. Escanaba reports a fall of 20 inches. Along the Atlantic coast it was a hurricane accompanied with rain, snow and hail.

Bert Goodell and Frank Meade, the hustling grocers, both have acquired lots in the Normal Park addition. The lots have frontage along the oak grove.

An Editor's Outlook

Copious verbiage obscures Paucity of palpable thought

The best thing about "in" words is that they generally warn that a bit of profound nonthink is about to appear.

At the moment the two in-est words in America are "meaningful" and "relevant." Occasionally, like "implement" and "finalize," they do accompany a valid thought and thus symptomize (patent applied for) the minor sin of gobbledegookery. But usually they mask an attempt to put a top hat and tails on a wisp of utter vapor.

If you say, "It don't mean nothin'," you are obviously from the wrong side of the tracks; but if you say, "It lacks relevancy," or "It is deficient in meaningfulness," people will think you belong to the upper classes.

Talking through your hat and talking through your mortarboard are essentially the same thing, but the techniques are different. The low-brows may simply "talk" and the middle-brows "converse." But double domes are engaged in "meaningful dialogues."

This wistful and very human desire to be thought an intellectual giant, even on those days when the brain is stuck in low gear, is endemic in academic and governmental societies.

Not long ago a release from the U.S. Department of Agriculture stated: "Temperature is a most important factor in determining the ecological optimum and limits of crop growth, and therefore the agricultural exploitation of our water and soil resources."

This meant, "if it's too hot or too cold crops have a hell of a time."

An interoffice memo in the Department of Interior recently said:

"The appropriate concepts of cost and gain depend upon the level of optimization, and the alternative policies that are admissible. This appropriate level of optimization and the alternatives that should be compared depend in part on the search for a suitable criterion."

This didn't mean anything.

Benjamin Franklin opposed the drive by the Federalists to limit the right to vote to people of property. In support of Ben's position, some of his friends issued a manifesto that began:

"It cannot be adhered to with any reasonable degree of intellectual or moral certainty that the inalienable right man possesses to exercise his political preferences..." and so on for several hundred words.

Ben Franklin rewrote it as follows:

"To require property of voters leads us to this dilemma: I own a jackass; I can vote. The jackass dies; I cannot vote. Therefore, the vote represents not me but the jackass."

John O'Hayre in his delightful little treatise, "Gobbledegook Has Gotta Go," recalls an air raid instruction issued to government workers in Washington during World War II:

"Such preparations will be made as will completely obscure all federal buildings and nonfederal buildings occupied by the federal government during an air raid for any period of time from visibility by reason of internal or external illumination. Such obscuration may be obtained either by blackout construction or by termination of the illumination."

Franklin D. Roosevelt seized a pen and wrote:

"Where the work can't be shut down, cover the windows. Where it can, turn out the lights!"

The business of trying to pass off obscuritism as deep thought is a hoary human foible, but it seems to be growing worse in this modern age as more and more people are becoming educated above their brains.

The disease is even getting into the newspaper business. Most old-time editorial writers were ex-police reporters, and while their huffing and puffing lacked mellifluous elegance, they left you in no doubt that Ali Baba and the 40 Thieves were Eagle Scouts compared to the mayor and the city council.

But now many of the new recruits in the great newspaper think-tanks are fresh out of graduate school and you can't read 'em without a thesaurus.

There is much to be learned on the police beat about the power of plain English.

Once, many years ago when I was a cub reporter, I was leafing through the overnight arrest reports and came across one in the labored handwriting of old Lee Pollock, the cowboy detective.

It gave a woman's name, and added: "This lady is a whore."

That's a meaningful statement full of relevance.

Washington Report

Nixon represents A new direction After 8-year lag

The important things in public life have not changed in the four years of my self-enforced sabbatical from the U.S. Senate.

It's almost as though I had left a Broadway play for an intermission and returned years later to the same theater, an identical setting, a familiar plot and a similar cast.

When the 91st Congress opened in January, I found the Senate engrossed in an attempt to change the filibuster rule. The Senate had occupied itself with the same subject in the opening sessions which I attended in 1961 and 1963.

By "important things," I don't mean conditions as they exist in our government and throughout the country. There have been great circumstantial changes, but the fundamental issues remain the same — U.S. security and the defense of the Free World, the Vietnamese war, unrest on the campus and in the ghetto, safety of our citizens, crime and inflation.

These issues remain, but the direction in which our government is moving to meet them is showing signs of improvement. I believe this was the meaning of the election which put Richard Nixon into the presidency. Our people were discouraged and unhappy with the way things were moving, and they voted a "mandate of change."

Hubert Humphrey represented the status quo and a continuation of the old policies

By Sen.
Barry F.

affecting the great issues. The combined Nixon-George Wallace vote represented the desire for change in these policies. In this fashion, we encounter a true mandate for new attitudes, new approaches, new devices in all areas of public life.

Judging from what we have seen already, the new administration is moving to bring about this change. The indications are many that the United States will not forever hold a useless marathon discussion in Paris while the Viet Cong continues to take advantage of our bombing halt to kill American men. The new administration will likely move quickly to correct the mistakes of former Defense Secretary Robert McNamara and upgrade this nation's defense posture.

It is apparent that the Nixon Administration not only realizes the gravity and the extent of the problem of crime, but intends to meet it with adequate measures.

Setting the nation's fiscal house in order is high on the agenda for serious action by this administration. But groping with an inflation fueled by billions of dollars of new federal expenditures over the past eight years is a monumental task. It will take time and determined and possibly unpopular effort.

However, these efforts already are being recorded by congressional committees. The administration has said it favors continuation of the 10 per cent surtax beyond its expiration date in June because of the need to slow down the overheated economy. This was one of the more unpopular moves announced since the new regime took office. But I believe it is an indication of a new determination to take whatever action is necessary to halt further shrinkage of the American dollar and thus ease the hardships of many Americans who are retired or work for wages.

At the same time, the new administration is moving deliberately in the direction of eliminating unnecessary spending and wasteful government practices. Given time, it undoubtedly will produce something in the nature of the old Hoover Commission — equipped to investigate thoroughly all government services and recommend methods for bringing them up to date.

In my next article Monday I will give you some indications of what you may expect from my weekly columns in the future.

This Day In History

By the Associated Press
Today is Saturday, April 19, the 109th day of 1969. There are 256 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1775, the American Revolution began with the battle of Lexington and Concord.

On this date:

In 1783, eight years after the Battle of Lexington, Congress announced the victorious end of the Revolutionary War.

In 1824, the English poet Lord Byron died in Greece in the fight for Greek independence.

In 1865, funeral services for Abraham Lincoln were held in the East Room of the White House.

In 1892, Charles E. Duryea of Springfield, Mass., operated the first practical gasoline car in the United States.

In 1933, the United States went off the gold standard.

In 1945, during World War II, American troops captured Germany's fifth largest city, Leipzig.

Ten years ago — Montana State Prison at Deer Lodge was quiet after three days of rioting during which 23 hostages were held.

Five years ago — A rightwing military group overthrew the coalition of government of Prince Souvanna Phouma in Laos.

One year ago — North Vietnam rejected the latest U.S. proposals on a site for preliminary peace talks.

Unusual pulsar
Found on coast

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Astronomers at the California Institute of Technology say they have observed a pulsing star that pulsed faster one week than the next.

The pulsars are noted for a regular flash rate, from once every few seconds up to 30 times per second.

Scientists speculate the pulse may come from rapid stellar rotation.

The irregular pulsar was observed between Feb. 24 and March 3 by astronomers Paul Reichley and G. S. Downs of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory. They said the ejection of mass from the pulsar may have caused a .0001 per cent speedup in its pulse rate.

Thailand Fraud Reviewed

Navy rejects
Proxmire's view

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has granted John McGee a clean record and a pay raise, but rejected a senator's contention that he was responsible for exposing multimillion-dollar thefts of U.S. fuels in Thailand.

Secretary of the Navy John H. Chaffee told McGee, a civilian fuel inspector, he would be transferred from the Navy Fuel Supply Office in Washington to another post in the continental United States and given a new chance "to perform satisfactorily."

McGee was credited by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., with "blowing the whistle" on loose supply control procedures that allowed massive thefts of military fuels earmarked for Southeast Asia. McGee contended that was why he was sent back to the United States last fall and assigned "a make-work job as a filing clerk."

The General Services Administration reported last Dec. 31 that bribery, forgery, collusion and lax practices resulted in thefts during 1966 and 1967 of more than 5.5 million gallons of fuel.

In his letter Chaffee told McGee, "I am persuaded that thefts of fuel in Thailand were not exposed initially by you but had been detected and reported earlier by others. Also, I have found no evidence to support your charge that your supervisor fraudulently received for fuel."

"Therefore, while I consider it highly important to protect ... the right and obligation of every employee of the Department of the Navy to report suspected irregularities to appropriate officials, I find no basis for commending you."

McGee said, "I haven't contended I uncovered the thefts. I said the procedures being used were responsible for the thefts. I never said my supervisor was guilty of fraud. I said he was signing for the receipt of fraudulent deliveries and that is certainly true."

Ireland's royal harp recovered

Dublin officials hold the ancient harp of King Brian Boru after its recovery by police from a mountain hideout near the Irish capital. The harp, Ireland's official emblem, had been stolen last month from the library of Trinity college in Dublin. Police, acting on a tip, found the instrument wrapped in plastic and buried in a mountain quarry. (AP Photo)

Only 4 U.S. deserters Occupy Swedish camp

OESTERBYBRUK, Sweden (AP) — Sweden's new job-training camp for U.S. military deserters has all the comforts of an Army camp but only four takers.

Volunteers who come to this remote village get free room and board, medical care, television, $1 a day pocket money, five hours a day of Swedish language lessons and training in occupations for their life in exile.

But most of the approximately 300 American defectors, deserters and draft resisters living in Sweden apparently prefer the swinging city life to this town of 1,500, about 20 miles from the nearest movie.

Danny A. Rowan, 18, of Colebrook, N.H., one of the camp's four pioneers, said: "The place is just what you need in our situation."

Goesta Broberg, director of the Labor Market Board that started the camp, was confident more Americans will join up. The project is geared for shifts of 25 to 30 men.

Each deserter has his own bedroom. They share a small kitchen and a big living room which has a television and a library.

If they want a special book, it is ordered from the state library in Uppsala. Swedish and American newspapers are available, and laundry is paid by the Labor Market Board.

Evenings, the four may take the camp bus to Uppsala, 20 miles to the southwest, to see a movie or visit friends.

"In their free time they can do what they want. We have no form of superintending here," said Bo Ripa, director of the camp.

The living is good, said Rowan, who quit his unit in Heidelberg, Germany, and came to Sweden eight months ago. But he added that the four campers are determined to use the experience to make good in Sweden.

After five to six weeks of language, they will be ready for job training. Later the Labor Market Board will help them find jobs and perhaps extend loans to get them started.

Another camp member, Ronald D. Cozart, 22, of Los Angeles, is considering a business career. He came to Sweden two weeks ago after leaving his unit in Kitzingen, Germany.

The two other deserters at the camp declined to reveal their names.

"It is a fine place, and the staff here really are working for you," one said. "I myself would love to have a guitar. I left my own in the Army. Tomorrow Ripa, our camp boss, will get one for me."

The other said he has taken up painting, and the Labor Market board provides his materials.

U.S. wins skirmish Despite armor loss

SAIGON (AP) — American armored units killed 100 North Vietnamese in two battles but lost at least four tanks and seven other armored vehicles, military spokesmen said today.

A day-long battle Friday cost the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment four tanks—two new 16-ton Sheridans and two 50-ton M48 tanks—plus seven killed and 28 wounded, field reports said.

Later Friday night, three armored personnel carriers were destroyed by fire and four other tracked vehicles were badly damaged when North Vietnamese sappers attacked a "wagon train" circle of tanks and personnel carriers three miles southeast of the demilitarized zone.

Despite the loss of the tanks in the first battle, armored cavalry officers called it a victory. They said 82 enemy bodies were found after the battle.

"It was a good lesson for Charlie. He learned he can't mess around with the Sheridans and get away with it," said Col. Jimmie Leach of Hampton, N.C., commander of the 11th Regiment.

The fighting erupted when units of the regiment ran into a North Vietnamese ambush in Tay Ninh province. The Sheridan tanks, artillery and helicopter gunships pounded the enemy for most of the day.

Maj. John Bronson of Rochelle, Ga., a squadron commander, said the first rocket grenade was fired prematurely by the North Vietnamese attackers "and that enabled us to get them before they could carry out the rest of the ambush."

The 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment and a squadron of the 25th Division are the only two units in Vietnam equipped with Sheridan tanks, which have been undergoing combat evaluation since they arrived in mid-February. So far 10 have been destroyed and several have been damaged in action.

Associated Press correspondent Robert Ohman reported from Cam Lo that 13 Americans were killed and 24 were wounded in the defensive circle set up by 9th Regiment Marines and supporting armor of the 1st Brigade, 5th Mechanized Infantry Division.

Rocket-grenades knocked out three armored personnel carriers in the first minutes of the battle, clearing a path for enemy sappers who raced through and hurled satchel charges at three tanks and 17 other APCs.

Helicopter gunships laid a ring of fire around the embattled troopers until a second troop of tanks and APCs arrived. Then the North Vietnamese withdrew.

Michigan soldier escapes From VC after 13 months

SAIGON (AP) — An American soldier listed as missing for more than a year has been found in Tay Ninh province, 18 days after he escaped from the Viet Cong, the U.S. Command said today.

He was identified as Spec. 5 Thomas H. Van Putten, 21, of Caledonia, Mich. Spokesmen said he was suffering from malnutrition and dehydration but otherwise was in "good condition," when found Thursday.

Van Putten was reported missing Feb. 1, 1968. The command said he was riding as a guard on a road scraper in Tay Ninh province about 70 miles northwest of Saigon when he disappeared. His vehicle was "found off the road," headquarters said.

At that time he was serving as a construction machine operator with the 79th Engineer Group and had been in South Vietnam since Feb. 20, 1967.

The command gave no details saying only that "he escaped captivity about 18 days before being found" by 17th Cavalry troopers attached to the U.S. 25th Division.

"I blew a kiss to the gunner on the LOH—light observation helicopter—that picked me up," headquarters quoted Van Putten as saying. "I'll never forget that big, beautiful blond moustache the pilot had. When I jumped in the chopper, I grabbed his shoulder and yelled 'I love you.' That was really something. And I hugged the gunner."

The command said the young soldier's first words to the Americans were: "I've escaped from the enemy. Give me something to eat." Then he ate some canned ration chicken with noodles, fruit cocktail and drank some warm root beer.

"I've never tasted such delicious food in all my life," the GI was quoted as saying.

Before being captured, Van Putten weighed about 185 pounds. Spokesmen said he now weighs 121 pounds.

"The first time I looked in the mirror—that isn't me," he said.

Spokesmen said he would be flown to the United States today for a reunion with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Van Putten of Caledonia, Mich.

Wilford-Hall vows Spoken yesterday

Carolyn Sue Wilford, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wilford of 1502 Melvin St., married Jeffrey Phillip Hall of Wyandotte at Immanuel Baptist Church last night.

Officiating at the 7 p.m. ceremony was the Rev. William A. Laudermilch.

Miss Joan Studdard of Detroit, the bride's aunt, was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were: Mrs. Terrence Porter of Southfield, the groom's sister, Miss Susan Clark of 1563 Grove Rd.; and Miss Patricia Ann Nunnery of Detroit, the bride's cousin.

The groom's brother, Jon Hall of Los Angeles, was the best man.

Ushers for the ceremony were James Hall of Washington, D.C., the groom's brother; Terrence Porter of Southfield, the groom's brother-in-law; and the bride's brother, Gary.

The bride wore a white traditional silk gown with peau d'ange lace, a round lace neckline, an empire waist and short lace sleeves. Her bouquet was a cascade of miniature "wedding white" roses with a white orchid in the center.

Pink, shirtwaist-sleeve silk organza long gowns were worn by the bridesmaids, along with a pink bow head-dress and a shoulder-length veil. They carried cascade bouquets of pink carnations, daisies and ivy.

The mother of the bride wore a pink linen coat dress with matching accessories.

A reception was held at the Holiday Inn Motel near Arborland Shopping Center immediately following the wedding. Thursday night a rehearsal dinner for the wedding party was given at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride, a Willow Run High School graduate, attended Washtenaw Community College and worked as a clerk at Muir's Drug Store.

Currently attending Lawrence Institute of Technology, the groom is employed at Federal Mogul Data Processing Research Corp. He formerly served with the U.S. Army in Vietnam.

MISS BARBARA PRICE

Vows Set

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Price of Paramus, N.J., announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Elaine, to Roy Elwood Hansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hansen, 8453 Willis Rd.

Miss Price graduated from Paramus High School in 1965 and is presently a senior at Eastern Michigan University, majoring in occupational therapy. She is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority.

Hansen graduated from Lincoln High School in 1964 and EMU in 1968. He is now attending Methodist Theological School in Delaware, O. A June 14 wedding is planned.

SHOULD FURNITURE BE MIXED OR MATCHED?

Many years ago, furniture stores featured six, seven and even eight piece living room sets all in the same wood finishes. This finish usually was either mahogany or maple. Very often the fabric and color on the upholstered pieces were all identical.

Although many people still prefer to use the same wood finishes throughout the living room, the trend through the years has been to get away from sets or suites of living room furniture by using many different finishes in the same room very effectively.

As a matter of fact, many leading decorators prefer using different wood finishes and even different periods in the same room.

One of the loveliest living rooms I have seen had a mahogany piano, a modern sofa, two Early American maple chairs, a white marble top cocktail table with black base, and a fruitwood French Provincial breakfast. However, all the colors and textures of the floor coverings, fabrics, lamps, draperies and walls were beautifully blended.

So, whether you like to mix or match, our decorators here at Popular, 25 E. Michigan are at your service without cost or obligation. We invite you to come in. Open 'til 9 p.m. Mon., Thurs., Fri. And be sure to watch for our future columns on furniture and interior decorating ideas. We'll be bringing them to you regularly.

Luncheon set for May Festival

"Blossom Time" will be the theme for the annual May Festival luncheon Saturday, April 26, jointly sponsored by the alumnae chapters of Sigma Alpha Iota and Mu Phi Epsilon, international professional music sororities.

Reservations for the luncheons will be accepted through Monday, April 21 by the treasurers of each organization.

Members and guests will gather at 11:30 a.m. on Saturday in the University of Michigan North Campus Commons.

Dr. John A. Flower, Dean of the College of Fine and Professional Arts and Professor of Music at Kent State University will be the featured speaker.

Dr. Flower, formerly an associate dean of the University of Michigan School of Music will discuss the New Blossom music center and school established July 19, 1968 in Northampton Township, Ohio. Academic auspices for the educational program of the center are provided by Kent State.

Announcement of the winner of the Ann Arbor Society for Musical Arts scholarship is included in the program. This award is an annual grant jointly supported by Sigma Alpha Iota and Mu Phi Epsilon.

Mrs. Laurence Teal and Mrs. A. C. Stander, Jr. are co-chairmen for the affair. Mrs. Wayne Donaldson is decorations chairman.

HELOISE'S HINTS

Foil wrapping alters flowers

By HELOISE CRUSE

DEAR HELOISE: If you have plastic flowers or leaves that you no longer care to use, you can turn them into beautiful party decorations or table centerpieces.

Cut or tear circles of thin aluminum foil and wrap each flower petal or leaf, pressing firmly to bring out any indentations or lines from the plastic onto the foil.

Then wrap foil around stems, and a tired old plastic flower becomes a sparkling new silver one.

This works best on broadleafed petals.

I covered plastic roses and put them in a scarlet vase. They were very striking.

These silver flowers and leaves are beautiful at showers, weddings and anniversary celebrations. Mrs. H. Gunning

DEAR HELOISE: I have a real good hint to share with you when serving gelatin to small children.

I very quickly and neatly cut it into bite-sized pieces with my potato masher.

It looks real pretty and is perfect for the little ones who might otherwise have trouble getting it on their spoon. A Reader

Well "Bless Bess." Wonder if anyone else ever thought of that? What a timesaver when you are serving a number of small children at a meal. I think you are the cleverest one. Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: I work my fingers to the bone, and what do I have to show for it? Bony fingers! Mrs. M.

DEAR FOLKS: Let's get down to inspecting the cord on our electric mixers today — bet you will find them soiled. 'Specially in that little groove where the two cords are connected. Dried chocolate icing, cake mixes, and such.

Never mind about that guilt complex. I had one too when I looked at mine. Try as I might I just couldn't get that little groove clean with a wet sponge, so . . .

I took a little pan of warm water and suds and being very careful not to get the plug in the water (leave it hanging outside the glass, pan or fruit jar), folded the cord and let it set in the pan of warm suds about 15 minutes.

With a swipe of a sponge and a dry cloth, it's clean — slick as a whistle. Why not get that one little job done today before your mother-in-law calls on you and uses it? Heloise

P.S. While you're at it, take a look at the underneath part of your mixer where the spatters hit! When it's in position we never see that at all.

Soapy perk

A coffee spot that is badly stained inside can be cleaned by filling it to capacity with hot soapy water and letting it percolate for about 15 minutes. Rinse well, and the pot lining is as clean as new.

Craig's disciples exercising around the world

By The Associated Press

An overseas jet-plane passenger raises a rubber ball to her forehead and presses it between the heels of her hands.

A woman traveling to Europe by ship does the same thing.

In Laos and Malaya two Peace Corps girls perform the same ritual.

Voodoo? Conspiracy? No—they're performing exercises to firm the bust.

The ladies are disciples of beautiful, curly-haired, blonde Marjorie Craig, who looks 30ish but whose claim to fame is that she has been keeping women trim and healthy with exercise for 34 years.

Faithful followers of "Craigie," as she is known to many of them, are taught to exercise every day, wherever they are. The school teacher in Laos wrote that she has managed to find a way in spite of curious pupils, and the Malayan worker lost two inches all around. One society client won't accept weekend invitations unless the guest room is large enough to accommodate her exercise routines.

Until now, Miss Craig's exercises have been limited to private instruction—one-half hour, $12, one hour $22—and clients guarded their secret because they could not afford to lose a standing appointment they might have had for 12 years.

The recent publication of "Miss Craig's 21-day Shape-up Program," now high on the best seller list, has increased the tribe of followers, who besiege her by letter and telephone, but chances are slim that new disciples will ever get a private lesson.

When a regular pupil becomes ill or goes on vacation, Miss Craig draws from a "long, long waiting list."

"The exercises in the book are the same as those given in private instruction. But the reader must discipline herself," says Miss Craig who keeps a watchful eye on her clients.

"They aren't supposed to cheat," she says laughing.

"but some are unable to exercise when they are on vacation, and they are afraid to come in when they return."

If you comb your hair, and brush your teeth, why do you neglect caring for your muscles, asks Miss Craig, adding that many of her exercises—hands, feet, neck—may be done even in a compact airplane seat.

She likes normal dieting, reduced portions of food, rather than freak diets, and she goes along with insurance experts who suggest that even five pounds overweight is obesity.

Miss Craig exercises one-half hour every day, and says that should be a minimum for everyone. She is 5 feet 6 inches and weighs 115 pounds, 10 pounds less than she weighed 20 years ago.

A winning breakfast team

If the family's hankering for something different for breakfast, but you dare not blow that tight morning time schedule, consider jellied cereal with ice cream.

This is an easy way to entice youngsters and adults to the table for their morning energy and nutrition.

JELLIED CORN FLAKES A LA MODE

1/2 cup currant jelly
1/4 cup light corn syrup
1/4 cup orange juice

1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
4 cups corn flakes
1 pint vanilla ice cream, softened

Combine currant jelly, syrup and orange juice; heat, stirring constantly until jelly melts and mixture comes to a boil. Stir in spices. Chill.

Arrange each serving of cereal in a serving dish. Drizzle 1/4 of sauce over each cereal serving. Top with either ice milk or ice cream. Yield: 4 servings.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

★ By SYDNEY OMARR ★

ASTROLOGICAL COOKERY FOR TONIGHT: Planetary, lunar aspects spotlight shashlik — marinated shoulder of lamb. Cut in cubes, threat on skewer and broil. Basic marinade for each pound of meat is juice of one lemon, whole onion chopped — and salt and pepper. Then you'll be cooking with astrology!

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Basic and routine issues dominate. Realize that you cannot skip essentials. You must utilize diplomacy, especially in dealing with family. Spend for items that enhance home comfort.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You may be pressured for decision. But all facts are not in. Know this and delay. Forces tend to be scattered. Relative who is insistent can be tolerated. Don't argue.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You might get raise in pay. Income potential is highlighted. Some pressure is relieved. What appeared a loss boomerangs in your favor. Be confident — maintain poise.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Cycle is moving up — take initiative. Finish what you start. Spread influence — broaden horizons. Your appeal is wide. Success indicated if you pursue favorite project.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): One who had remained behind the scenes speaks out. Avoid panic. Facts still favor your ideas. Someone may be trying to throw a scare into you. Obtain hint from TAURUS message.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Good lunar aspect today coincides with backing from friends. Some of your hopes, wishes can be fulfilled. Be sociable. Hunch pays dividends. Follow through — you are right.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Some directions, instructions could be garbled. If you do not understand, ask for repeat. Keep communication lines clear. Long-distance call could be on the way.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Journey indicated. Break from routine seems definite. Learn rules before breaking them. Means be knowledgeable before making changes. Red tape can be removed — do it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Delve into mysteries. Put together puzzle pieces. Be a shrewd analyst. Seek aid from LIBRA individual. Joint efforts succeed. Check credits, debits. Take inventory.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Emphasis on marriage, partnerships. Legal activity is indicated. Check contracts. Read between the lines — study fine print. Money is involved. Get your fair share.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Keep resolutions concerning health, especially in connection with diet, exercise. One who serves you deserves special praise. Keep on even keel. Continue with pattern.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Pleasant evening as member of opposite sex pays meaningful compliment. Ego gets boost. Be creative. Gain indicated through hobby, work you enjoy.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have fine sense of humor, are versatile and artistic. Change, travel, variety are part of current cycle. So is possibility of marriage, addition to family.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

"I JUST FOUND OUT that your husband is in the hospital," sympathized a lady's friend over the phone. "What's the matter with him?" "It's his knee," explained the lady grimly. "I found his new secretary sitting on it."

A group of Literature profs and graduate students at a Pacific Coast university became embroiled in a heated argument some years ago over the exact meaning of one of William Faulkner's most famous stories, "The Bear." Finally one prof suggested they pool their resources and phone Faulkner himself way down at his home in Oxford, Mississippi. They got him, too. "Mr. Faulkner," began the professor breathlessly, "we're calling to ask you to tell us the real meaning of your great story, 'The Bear.'"

Faulkner paused a moment, and answered, "It's a huntin' story"—and hung up.

OVERHEARD: Absent-minded professor's wife: "Hubert, are you sure you've forgotten everything?"

Resigned father: "My teen-age daughter has just discovered you actually can talk to people without waiting for a dial tone!"

In a courtroom: "Judge, I want to divorce my wife because of illness in the family. I got sick of her."

Shows to watch

9:30 p.m., Channel 7 — The Hollywood Palace — (CHOICE VIEWING). A repeat show, hosted by Steve Lawrence. Performing guests include Florence Henderson (she's in ABC's The Brady Bunch in the fall), Phyllis Diller, Bill Dana, Pat Anthony and his lions, the Rhodins (aerialists from Sweden), the Fuller Brothers and ventriloquist Russ Lewis. Steve sings "She Loves Me," "On a Clear Day" and "The Impossible Dream." And in a comedy bit, he teams with Phyllis in "I've Grown Accustomed to Your Face."

9 p.m., Channel 4 — "The Rare Breed." With the 1884 National Stockmen's Exposition in St. Louis as a background, James Stewart and Maureen O'Hara star in a western-drama about cattle breeding and rustling. Stewart is a saddle tramp hired to deliver prize Hereford bull brought over from England by Maureen and her daughter (Juliet Mills). A lot of "gosh darnin'" by Stewart in one of his patented portrayals. A 1966 release.

8:30 p.m., Channel 2 — My Three Sons. Sylvia Sidney makes a rare appearance on TV in the role of an extraordinary schoolteacher. Young Ernie (Barry Livingston) comes to intellectual and emotional grips with her in his English class. The CBS censor is really on safe grounds here, considering all the problems they had with the Smothers.

SUNDAY

The Tony Awards — (SPECIAL); 10 p.m. Channel 4; It's Broadway's night to salute distinguished achievements in the theater. The 23rd annual Antoinette Perry Awards are given to the best shows which premiered between March '68-'69. The Mark Hellinger Theater is the scene of the presentations. Alan King and Diahann Carroll are co-hosts. Scenes from "Hair," "The Great White Hope" and "Zorba" will be performed on stage. Art Carney, Julie Harris, Herschel Bernardi and Angela Lansbury are nominees for awards.

Experiment in TV — (SPECIAL); 3:30 p.m. Channel 4; The premiere performance of "Big Sur," a new play by Frank Gagliano. It's the story of a middle-aged organist (Gene Troobnick) who wins a car in a raffle and decides to fulfill a lifelong dream and leave his small Midwestern town and drive across country to California. He makes some unusual discoveries and acquaintances along the way.

Mission: Impossible; 10 p.m. Channel 2; They still have some new productions here. Tonight, the IMF blanks out an enemy agent's memory in a bold experiment to make him think he's someone else. All part of a "psychological snare" to avert a planned nuclear attack. By now this has become plot formula No. 1 in spy shows. Stars Peter Graves, Barbara Bain and Martin Landau.

Lady whale gets Shock in heart

NEW YORK (AP) — Francis the lady whale got an electrocardiogram Friday.

Officials at the New York Aquarium at Coney Island attached a transistorized transmitter to Francis' back and two electrodes to other parts of her body and sent her swimming off.

The transmitter picked up the electric impulses of the heart and sent them to a receiver at the top of the whale pool so scientists could listen. The impulses were later recorded on an electrocardiograph.

The heart check-up was part of an experiment to perfect recording equipment to be used for scientific tests on other sea animals.

DR. BROTHERS:

Bringing up the baby Isn't all child's play

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Almost everyone wants to road to success is always bumpy and full of tricky curves. If you think you've all the answers, you might try your luck with this quiz.

1. Though we all try to love our children equally, it is almost inevitable that our feelings for each child are somewhat different.

TRUE—FALSE—
 2. Corporal punishment is usually an outlet for the parent rather than for the child. TRUE—FALSE—

3. Conflict with parental authority in adolescence may be a good thing for the child. TRUE—FALSE—

4. The child who is teased by a parent is actually the object of hostility. TRUE—FALSE—

5. A mother may unconsciously cause a child to over-react to pain and minor injuries. TRUE—FALSE—

6. It is abnormal for any parent to have negative feelings about his own child. TRUE—FALSE—

7. Our positive and negative feelings about our children are generally determined by our own parent's feelings about us. TRUE—FALSE—

8. All children imitate their parents but, fortunately, they are likely to imitate only the positive qualities. TRUE—FALSE—

ANSWERS

1. TRUE. Each child is a complicated being, a collection of many traits, good and bad, and the parent responds to the whole collection. Each child is a unique mixture of traits, some of which are appealing to a parent and some of which are not. All children are different and they change from month to month and from moment to moment. So, to a certain extent, our feelings about them also change, although we probably remain devoted to them. We love children for different reasons and for their different qualities.

2. TRUE. Most psychologists agree that any parent who is angered enough to strike a child cannot be a just parent at that time. Parents are taking advantage of the child if they cannot control and regulate their own feelings. Corporal punishment is never justified because it is not necessary. There are always better ways. This sort of severe punishment serves the purpose of the parent, not the child.

3. TRUE. Defiance is necessary to growing children and when they consistently give in to their parents avoiding conflict, they are not preparing themselves for the struggles they will have to meet later in life.

4. TRUE. To tease is really a hostile act. The teaser wants to arouse others, and themselves too, because it gives them pleasure, but at the moment it might turn into something serious they usually get frightened or angry and want to break it off.

5. TRUE. Studies show that the child who keeps running to his mother demanding sympathy for imaginary scratches may need more affection from his mother at other times. His mother may be too stern and distant most of the time, and become warm and sympathetic only when the child appears to be physically suffering.

5. FALSE. Dr. Wolfred Hulse, chief of the psychiatric staff at the New York Bureau of Child Welfare, says that all parents, even good ones, have both positive and negative feelings towards children. "I love him; I want to help" is often coupled with the feeling of "I hate him because he deprives me of certain pleasures."

7. TRUE. Generally, we are pleased to see the qualities in our own child that our parents have valued and have tried to inculcate in us. Also every family's disapproval of certain undesirable characteristics tends to be passed on from generation to generation. We are most likely to be upset to see the bad habits or qualities in our children which we ourselves had as children and may still have as adults.

8. FALSE. Children imitate both the good and the bad. If they only imitated the good, we would all be quite perfect by this time in our history.

If you answered six out of eight questions correctly, and if you practice what you know, the generation gap in your household may be only a slim line.

DEAR ABBY:

Young convict advises Others to 'go straight'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 and in a pack of trouble. I was arrested for burglary and other charges. This was not my first time, so I am locked up here in Cambridge, Minn., awaiting trial. I would like to express some of the things I have learned in the 121 days I have been here.

One is that you should listen to your parents as they will never steer you wrong. I never got along too well with my dad. Every time he tried to talk to me we got into a heated argument, but now I realize if I had listened to him, I wouldn't be here.

I would also like to tell kids, not to quit school to go out and make money. I did, and look where I ended up.

Also, there are no short cuts. A guy needs all the education he can get. And another thing, Don't blame your mistakes on other people. My friends showed me how to break the law, but I am the one who now must take full responsibility for my own actions. I will probably get sent up to St. Cloud, but thanks, Abby, for letting me say this. Also, I want to thank Sheriff Erickson. He is a swell guy. He let me use his typewriter to write to you.

"The Cambridge Bum"

DEAR SIR: You're young yet, so don't go calling yourself a "bum." You can pay your debt and still amount to something if you really want to. I talked to Sheriff Erickson, and he told me you had already been sent to St. Cloud. He said he certainly hoped you would straighten yourself out because you had a lot of good in you, in addition to being exceptionally smart. I believe him. I wish you luck.

DEAR ABBY: You always tell girls they should confide in their mothers. Well, I used to, but no more.

First I made my mother promise if I told her something in confidence she wouldn't tell anybody. She promised and I told her. (It was something about a boy I liked.) Well, it got back to this boy because my mother told my aunt, and this aunt just happens to have the biggest mouth in Baltimore, that's all, and she told this boy's mother!

So, please, Abby, tell mothers who can't keep secrets not to feel left out if their children don't tell them anything. Terry

DEAR TERRY: You are right, of course. So to all you mothers out there: If you want to keep the lines of communication open between you and your children, never — but never betray a confidence.

DEAR ABBY: Your column has always been welcome in our home. Indeed we called you "the learned judge — a Second Solomon." Then all that endearment came to a sudden end when you gave your approval to a mother bathing her baby in the kitchen sink — the same sink in which the household dishes were washed!

Abby, you showed a shocking disregard for the accepted principles of sanitation and disease prevention. The mere thought of eating from dishes washed in the same sink in which a child was bathed leaves a most offensive taste in one's mouth.

We could easily close this chapter by forever boycotting your column. However, we prefer to give you a chance to retract your unsavory judgement. Helen A., Northport, N.Y.

DEAR HELEN: Like I said. If the sink is clean before and after the baby's bath, what's the difference?

DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a formal wedding. Immediately following the ceremony, the photographer (a professional, hired for the occasion) said, "All right, I want a picture of the wedding party."

The pianist and soloist started to join the group. The photographer said, "Sorry, but you two are not in the wedding party."

The pianist appeared somewhat miffed, but sat down. The soloist ignored the photographer and got into the picture anyway. My question: Are the musicians part of the wedding party? Nosy

DEAR NOSY: Not in my book (Or Amy's, either.)

Confidential to "Actor — at Liberty": Pride goeth before a fall. A small role is better than a long loaf.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, care of The Press and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

YOUR HEALTH:

Transplants are extreme In heart surgery advances

By DR. LESTER COLEMAN

In a recent letter from Mrs. D. J. R. from Arizona, she asks: "Are transplants the only kinds of surgery that can be performed for hearts that are inadequate because of repeated attacks?" Mrs. R. continues, "My husband is not sick enough for a heart transplant and yet is not able to perform a full day's activities because of the weakness of his heart."

I am certain that many readers will be interested to know that there are a great many operations that are being tried in an effort to bring more blood to the heart muscle. This need is the basis for many of the complaints related to problems of the heart.

When the blood supply becomes inadequate in the coronary arteries which bring blood and oxygen to the heart muscle, it is not able to pump the vital blood throughout the body.

The inadequacy of the blood supply to the heart is probably one of the most glaring defects in the body that is made up of so many unbelievable safety measures.

There is a large artery known as the internal mammary artery which has been used by surgeons to be implanted directly into the heart muscle to make up for its own poor blood supply. In many instances this technique has been remarkably successful in restoring chronic heart invalids to complete productivity.

Doctor George E. Green at New York University has modified this operation and is now doing a complicated hook-up with one of the coronary arteries and bringing enough blood to the heart to relieve the painful anginal spasms that so often make partial invalids out of so many people with coronary artery disease. Before any surgery is attempted extensive studies are performed to evaluate each individual's need. Each day seems to bring more and more hope that such problems may be alleviated by surgery.

Doctor Richard D. Stewart of the Marquette University School of Medicine, and his co-worker, Dr. E. D. Baretta, believe that their newly created lung device may soon be used everywhere.

Speaking of your health:

Start spring conditioning slowly.

These columns are designed to relieve your fears about health through a better understanding of your mind and body. All the hopeful new advances in medicine reported here are known to doctors everywhere.

Your individual medical problems should be handled by your own doctor. He knows you best.

TEEN DATELINE:

Emotion, not word, dramatic

By ELE and WALT DULANEY

Dear Ele and Walt: Why is it all right to swear in a masterpiece book or movie

Guest speaker set For chapter meeting

Dr. Cyrus Stimson of the Plymouth State Home and Training School will be the guest speaker at the monthly chapter meeting of the Washtenaw Association for Retarded Children Monday at 8 p.m. at Trinity Lutheran Church, 1400 W. Stadium, Ann Arbor.

His topic is slated to be "Growth and Development of the Retarded."

but wrong to swear in real life? I've had to take punishment in school for using exactly the same words they used in "The Lion in Winter" and "Hamlet." And they assigned us to go and see these movies! — Jed.

Dear Jed: Words of anger and hurled insults underscore the dramatic intensity of a movie that deals with humans at the breaking point. But in school we're taught to channel our own anger into positive effort: "Talk out your differences together"; "Learn to understand what drives him to act that way"; "Hold back until you've enough power to make real change instead of just noise."

So the punishments come, not because someone will turn to stone at hearing a particular collection of sounds but because the caveman in you has won out.

Next time you're uptight with someone, try to visualize his head affixed to an infant's body. If that fails to put him down, scribble the obscenities that pop into mind on the roof of your closed mouth with your tongue. — Ele and Walt.

Life & Leisure: A guide for dedicated fun-lovers

What's at the movies tonight

2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY: Spectacular cinema effects have made Stanley Kubrick's futuristic epic one of the most well-deserved hits of the season. The relative absence of dialogue and narrative only increases the visual magnificence of a film which challenges all the unique possibilities of the film media. (G) — Quo Vadis Penthouse I

ROSEMARY'S BABY: Roman Polanski's chilling story of a young bride caught in the black ritual of a band of modern day East-side witches. Heartily not recommended for pregnant ladies. —Willow and Algier's Drive-ins

JOANNA: A very modern movie about a very contemporary girl who's pretty and adventurous and sleeps with a lot of different men because she likes them. There are no moral judgments here, not even any.

philosophical comments; just a story about people which is charming and happy simply because it doesn't pretend to be anything else, and bold and exciting because real people are. —Fifth Forum

ANGEL IN MY POCKET: Andy Griffith plays his guileless homespun self in this tale of a newly-ordained minister whose first post lands him in the middle of a town feud which threatens to bring down the church. It's a well-worn story, but it's the few films left for family fun and human and one of consumption. (G) — Wayne Drive-in

VALLEY OF THE DOLLS: Taken from the novel of the same name which probes the sexual and other hangups of the pill-popping generation, the movie is just as bad as the former bestseller and ought to do just as well with a not-too-discriminating audience. —Martha Washington

RACHEL, RACHEL: A chronicle of human failure, of the perpetual spinster who turns everything she touches to sterility and defeat. Paul Newman's first attempt at direction may well establish him as an artist in a second field, while Joanne Woodward's performance proves, once again, her virtuosity as a character actress. —State-Wayne

SUPPORT YOUR LOCAL SHERIFF: A Western to end all Westerns... and it probably will, as it methodically reduces all the standard genre clichés to the utter hilarity. James Garner plays the "stranger," Walter Brennan, "the vicious outlaw" and Joan Hackett, "the sweet young thing" in a film which is really too witty and sophisticated to claim a "G" rating—State-DUFFY: When daddy plans a million pound gold shipment, his none-too-affectionate sons enlist the aid of their good friend Duffy in a plan to hijack the floating treasure. Tables turn more than once in this slick caper, with James Coburn, James Fox and company carrying it off far better than the uninspired script deserves. —Ypsi-Ann Drive-in

BONNIE AND CLYDE: Blamed as a factor in the increasing trend towards violence in the cinema, the film actually is to be applauded by tempering a potentially sensational theme with sound psychological and dramatic conflict. If the film is brutal, it is only because killers are. —Scio Drive-in

WHERE EAGLES DARE: Richard Burton and Clint Eastwood are the only big names in this high-powered war story, but the film is nevertheless headed for a spot not claimed since "The Great Escape." Basically the story of a group of experts assigned to rescue a general from the Nazis, it is so suspensefully complicated that one never knows what lies beyond the next twist. The genre is redeemed, and the real adventure-monger is vindicated. (M) — Fox Village, Quo Vadis

BULLITT: Director Peter Yates has taken two movie clichés — the grimly honest cop in a corrupt world and one-dimensional "star" Steve McQueen — and made them both work. (M) — Quo Vadis Penthouse II

THE ODD COUPLE: Walter Matthau and Jack Lemmon play two newly divorced men trying to make another go of it... with each other. Bright and funny throughout, the film brings out the potentially tragic implications of the situation without turning them to melodrama, and ranks as one of the funniest of recent years. —Willow and Algier's Drive-ins

THE HEART IS A LONELY HUNTER: Carson McCullers' story of a deaf-mute too sensitive for the vulgar tragedies of this world, too compassionate for the people who inhabit it. A fragile film kept this side of sentimentality by Alan Arkin's flawless handling of the title role. —State-Wayne

PLANET OF THE APES: Human space travelers find themselves in a world turned upside down in which apes rule and humanoid beings are hunted as quarry. Plenty of room for either good satire or not-so-good slapstick; the filmmakers chose the low road. —Martha Washington

CHARLY: Sensitive story of a mentally-retarded man given a second chance by a miraculous brain operation, and eventually plunged back into darkness when the new advance proves temporary. An easy candidate for embarrassing bathos, the film is saved by dedicated low-key direction and Cliff Robertson's almost loving portrayal of the ill-fated hero. (G) — La Parisen

HELLFIGHTERS: John Wayne and Jim Hutton star as the titled heroes, who make their fortunes by battling the living hell of the blazing oil fire. Not much here for the philosophically-inclined, but those who like their action straight will be satisfied. —University Drive-in

WRECKING CREW: Dean Martin dredges up agent Matt Helm for a second outing, this time in pursuit of a billion-dollar shipment of hi-jacked gold. Dean sings spoofs and sexes it up a bit with Elke Summer, Nancy Kwan and Tina Louise to turn out a film remarkable only for the fact that it doesn't even pretend to be anything more than a rerun of earlier Dino efforts. —Ypsi-Ann Drive-in

FACES: The story of a marriage in the process of collapse, John Cassavetes' film focuses on a quartet of sad, frustrated people trying desperately to convince themselves that they are having a good time. Painfully and embarrassingly intimate, the film's great strength lies in the fact that the audience continues to watch what they would prefer not to, and comes away with a greater sense of identification than they might wish to feel.—Campus

THE SHAKIEST GUN IN THE WEST: After graduating from dental school, Don Knotts goes to seek his fortunes in the Wild West (where else?), and quickly establishes a baseless reputation as the quick-draw king. The humor is broad and terribly low-brow, but Knotts fans will be well satisfied. —University and Wayne Drive-ins

COOL HAND LUKE: Paul Newman turns in a moving performance as a man who refuses to be broken by the incredible inhumanities of a Southern prison camp. Studied with gallows' humor, the film is almost unbearably harsh, but it is a harshness justified by a story that ought to be told. —Scio Drive-in

HELL IN THE PACIFIC: Lee Marvin and Toshio Mifune star as an American marine and a Japanese officer marooned on the same desert island to fight a microcosmic version of WWII. The producers have admirably resisted fairstyle transformations, but they have also foregone any other significant character development. Two fine actors are frozen in a tableau of visual antagonism — a good still, but hardly a full-length motion picture. —Michigan

SMITH: Typical Walt Disney flair makes this modern Western pleasant and entertaining, if not overly provocative. Glenn Ford stars as a rancher who determines to save an Indian boy unjustly accused of murder, while an Indian-hating sheriff tries to push the charge. The film doesn't really say much about the racial situation, but since most movies do so badly anyway, perhaps that is a point in its favor. On a bill with "The Incredible Journey." —Wayside

Maxwell Smart is prepared to do battle to save the nation's potato crop on 'Snoopy Smart vs. The Red Baron,' tonight at 8 on NBC's "Get Smart."

Radio cited On coverage

Live news coverage of the September Washtenaw County welfare mothers' march earned an Associated Press Broadcasters Award for first place in spot news for 1968 for Daniel Druoz, news director of radio stations WOIA and WOIB.

The award was presented in Lansing by Governor William Milliken.

In another presentation, WOIA and WOIB was named "Station of the Month" by the AP.

Druoz has received four citations for news coverage in Ann Arbor.

Says New Africa spokesman:

Police slaying frustrated plot

DETROIT (AP)—The slaying of a white Detroit policeman three weeks ago was the frustrated result of a plot to assassinate the first vice president of the Republic of New Africa, a spokesman for the separatist group said Friday.

Richard Henry, who goes by the name of Brother Iari, told a rally of the RNA that his brother, Milton Henry, was marked for assassination. Imari did not say who planned the alleged assassination attempt, but he inferred it was a police plot.

The incident erupted shortly after an RNA rally at an inner city church March 29. One white policeman was slain and another seriously wounded after they radioed back to their precinct they were checking on about a dozen Negro men with rifles.

In the subsequent police invasion of the church building, four persons were wounded and one suffered a broken leg.

"Someone with a gun had sense enough to move away, and draw the police car away from its target, Brother Gaidi," Imari said. "Looks like somebody had sense enough to know what to do to save the first vice president—and he did it," the RNA minister of the interior told the 600 supporters jamming a Wayne State University auditorium.

Imari said the police reinforcements who had shot their way into the church in the incident were "guilty of felonies."

Police Commissioner Johannes Spreen had said an investigation disclosed the arriving police were fired upon from the church.

"In due time we'll identify them," Imari said of the police. "And they will be brought to justice."

The rally Friday night was carefully controlled by the elite guard of the RNA, the Black Legion.

All people were thoroughly frisked and searched before being allowed to enter the auditorium. A photographer whose flash accidentally fired was told to leave and his film was confiscated.

The RNA spokesman said one of the men charged with attempt to murder in the incident who later took the stand against his comrades had been beaten for four days by police. But a police spokesman denied that allegation early today.

The man to whom Imari referred was David Brown, 19, of Compton, Calif. He was identified by Imari as a member of the RNA, but not of the Black Legion.

Brown took the stand in Detroit Recorder's Court Friday to testify he saw Rafael Viera, 20, of New York fire six times at Patrolman Michael Czapski.

Viera surrendered himself to the FBI in New York Friday and was held in $100,000 bail.

Brown also testified he saw Alfred Hibbitt, 38, of Detroit, fire at patrolman Richard Worobec, who was wounded.

Edison seeks 11% rate hike

LANSING (AP) — Detroit Edison Co. wound up a week of hearings before the State Public Service Commission Friday asking for a $48 million annual rate increase.

C. F. Ogden, administrative vice president for the utility, said this represented about an 11 per cent hike in electric rates.

Ogden said he could not break down the figure to how it might affect the individual customer, commissioning us and how we break it down among our residential and commercial customers—both small businesses and big industries," he said.

Ogden said this is only the second increase asked by Detroit Edison since it was founded in 1903.

"The other was granted in 1949, in the inflation period following World War Two," he said.

Since that time, he said, Detroit Edison has made 17 rate reductions that represented a $28 million saving to customers in 1968 alone.

The commission has not yet set a date for continuation of the hearings. The commission staff will study company evidence and exhibits and utility witnesses will be cross examined when the hearing is resumed.

Detroit Edison serves nearly 1.5 million customers in 7,600 square miles of southeastern Michigan. This includes Detroit and its suburbs, all of the thumb area, as far south as Monroe and as far west as Flint. Other major cities served include Ann Arbor, Monroe, Port Huron, Ypsilanti, Trenton along with Detroit downriver communities.

THE VISIT: Friedrich Duerrenmatt's chilling story of the wealthiest woman in the world who returns to her hometown to offer a million dollar gift... in exchange for a single human life. The last play to join the Hilberry repertory, this is one of the great classics of the modern theater. — Hilberry Classic Theater, WSU, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. curtain, Saturday matinee at 2:30 p.m.; tickets from $2 to $3.

RING AROUND THE MOON: In one of his lighter and most fanciful plays Jean Anouilh weaves a romantic plot around two brothers — one innocent and naive, the other blatantly blasé — to make a witty comment on the state of life and love. Directed by Do Blakely, with Terry Baker in the dual title role. — Bonstelle Theater, WSU, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. curtain, Sunday matinee at 2:30 p.m.; tickets $2.

TROILUS AND CRESSIDA: Shakespeare's drama of the ill-fated lovers torn by both historical circumstance and human frailty. One of the Bard's greatest romances, the production will replace the "Hamlet" originally scheduled by the John Fernald Company. — Meadow Brook Theater, Oakland University, Rochester; 8:15 p.m. curtain, Sunday at 2 and 6:30 p.m.; tickets from $2 to $5.

DON'T DRINK THE WATER: Sam Levene takes the title role in Woody Allen's zany farce about a shutter-happy New Jersey tourist hunted by the espionage police of the Iron Curtain country he has recently immortalized in film. Most emphatically Allenesque — Fisher Theater, Detroit; through April 26 with 8:30 p.m. shows Monday through Saturday, 2 p.m. matinees Wednesday and Saturday, tickets from $3 to $6.

POOR RICHARD: The titled character is a British poet (somewhat reminiscent of Dylan Thomas) who immortalizes a love affair in poetry only to find that he, himself, no longer can believe in it. Written by Jean Kerr, the play is characteristically witty without losing a certain tenderness and compassion. Produced by the Coldwater Community Theater. — Tibbits' Opera House, Coldwater; 8:15 p.m. curtain; tickets $1.50.

Detroit

RED GARTER: Detroit branch of the great chain that marks a favorite night-spot in most of the major cities. Old-time music of banjos, musical saws and the honkiest piano around. Peanuts and pretzels with beer and cocktails from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m. nightly. — 1246 Library behind Hudson's; $1 cover on Friday and Saturday night.

POISON APPLE: Ingenious decor creating a little bit of Never-Never-Land in little old Detroit. Originally slated to include a seething caldron of forbidden fruit, the poison apple in question now refers to a wild drink that will knock you on your ear. But do try to catch a bit of the entertainment — mostly folksy and rather good — before hand. — Poison Apple, 13100 E. Jefferson, Detroit; cover $1 on weekdays, $1.50 on Saturday.

PIER ONE: Weekday afternoons it's just another American restaurant, but after five it's a Dionysian festival with Greek dinners served in the Dolphin Room until 1 a.m., and entertainment in the Mediterranean Room provided by the Athenian Quintet and an authentic belly dancer. — 506 Shelby, Detroit; 961-6108 for reservations.

MAKE A NOTE: Tickets for all events at J. L. Hudson Stores — PTP Theater, Detroit Symphony concerts, shows at Cobo Arena, Masonic Temple, etc. — can be ordered by phone and charged directly to your account! Special service for men-about-town who prefer not to leave the house.

Art

JACK TWORKOV is currently presenting his third 1-man show at the Gertrude Kase Gallery. The undisputed master of the monochromatic painting, Mr. Tworkov's works are proof of the infinite variety possible in a single color. In a noted series of three paintings he creates a blue world broken only by delicate white brush strokes, while in others his use of grey lends depth and mystery to his fantasies in green. A major influence on artists like Jasper Johns, Mr. Tworkov's artistic philosophy is shown to full advantage in the present collection. — Gertrude Kase Gallery, 310 Fisher Building, Detroit; through May 8 with galleries open Monday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

THE WORLD OF VOLTAIRE: After two years of preparation, the U-M Museum of Art is now hosting a unique exhibition which recreates the society of the Enlightenment and the life of the "one-man Civil Liberties Union" who dominated it. More than 100 objects — many of them never before lent for a museum show — will be included, ranging from portraits of Voltaire's contemporaries to Voltaire's own briefcase. — U-M Museum of Art, Alumni Memorial Hall, Ann Arbor; through May 10 with galleries open daily from 9 to 5, Wednesday from 9 to 9 and Sunday from 2 to 5.

THE MICHIGAN WATER COLOR SOCIETY is now holding its 23rd competitive exhibition at the Bloomfield Art Association. The only important regional show limited to the water-soluble media, the exhibition is made up of 60 paintings by noted artists in the Michigan area, including eight selected for this year's prizes. — Bloomfield Art Association, 1516 South Cranbrook Rd.; through May 4 with galleries open Tuesday through Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m.

Dali's evocative ink and watercolor collage, Bryan, Bryan, 1944, is among the highlights in a massive exhibition of the art of the surrealist currently showing at the J. L. Hudson Gallery in Detroit.

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY DANCE COMPANY will present a guest concert tomorrow evening at WSU's Community Arts Auditorium. Four faculty members of the troupe, together with selected students, will present a program of their own works, several of them created for the WSU concert. — Community Arts Auditorium, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. Sunday; tickets $1.

CINEMA GUILD has saved a highlight program for the last lap of the season, presenting tonight and tomorrow a collection of experimental Japanese films. Included will be documentaries, dramas and animations which exhibit new techniques in cinematography being explored by a generation of young Japanese filmmakers. — U-M Architecture Auditorium, Ann Arbor; shows tonight and tomorrow at 7 and 9:05 p.m.; admission 75c.

JAMES BROWN REVUE: For any follower of the pop scene, the name James Brown speaks for itself. Anyone else should skip it anyway; it will be too much for them. — Cobo Arena, Detroit; 8 p.m. Sunday; tickets from $4 to $7.50.

TV

JACKIE GLEASON: Comedy is the keynote as Jackie welcomes guests George Burns, Georgie Kaye, Lou Marsh, Tony Adams and his Honeymooner compatriots. Free-wheeling banter bounces from income tax to Miami girls and a good time is had by all. — 7:30 tonight; in color on Ch. 2.

BYE BYE BUTTERFLY: experiment in television takes a multi-dimensional look at Japan through the camera of Pierre - Dominique Gaisseau who is filming the creation of an avant-garde "Madame Butterfly." Film sequences show the director and actors discussing the script and rehearsing key scenes, while Martin Kuehnert, the only American in the cast, translates and narrates. — Sunday at 3:30 p.m.; in color on Ch. 4.

DAVID SUSSKIND: The vanishing restrictions on filmmakers is the topic of conversation for a panel composed of directors John Frankenheimer and Franco Zeffirelli, actor-director John Cassavetes and Peter Glenville, film critic Judith Crist and writer Mort Crowley. — 8 p.m. Sunday; in color on Ch. 50.

TONY AWARDS: Diahann Carroll and Alan King host the 1969 theater equivalent of the Academy Awards. Highlights of the ceremony include numbers from the three "Best Musical" nominees and scenes from two of the front-running plays. — Sunday at 10 p.m.; in color on Ch. 4.

Music

SOPRANO RECITAL: Michelle Derr, an instructor in music at EMU, will present a voice concert tomorrow of pieces by Haydn, Bach, Brahms, Respighi, and Webern. She will be accompanied on piano by her husband, Ellwood Derr. — EMU Pease Auditorium; 8 p.m. Sunday; admission free.

NAGAMANI IYENGAR will present a recital of Indian music tomorrow at the School of Music Recital Hall. Performing on the vina, her program will include both traditional and contemporary pieces by noted Indian composers. — U-M School of Music Recital Hall, Ann Arbor; 8:30 p.m. Sunday; admission free.

Night life

BIMBOS: Original Old Thyme Saloon, replete with waiters in straw hats and red garters, peanut shells on the floor, and the "old thyme" sing-along music of Uncle Pat and the Gaslighters. Seven days a week, music every night for the "eat, drink and be merry" set. — Bimbos, 114 E. Washington; no cover.

THE ARK: Emphasis on folk music with big-name entertainment on weekends, amateur sing-outs on Weds. nights and solitary strummers all the time. 50 cents admission covers free refreshments. — The Ark, 1421 Hill.

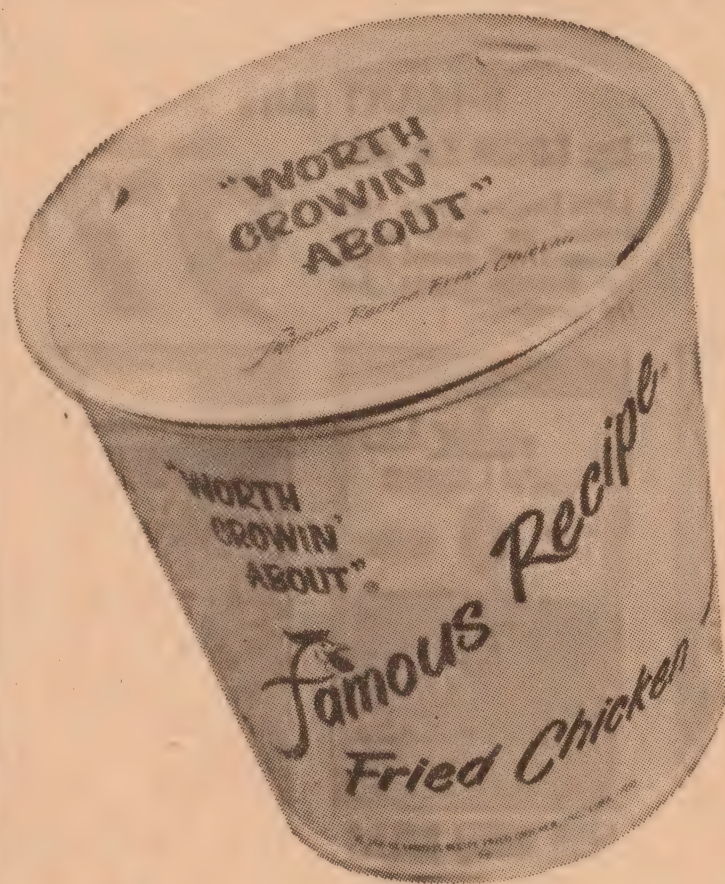

THE EMU CONCERT BAND will present its third concert of the season tomorrow under the direction of Max Plank. The program, which spans the whole spectrum of original works for band, will be highlighted by Gustav Holst's First Suite in E Flat for Military Band, Alan Hovhaness' Suite for Band, and John O'Reilly's Concerto for Trumpet and Winds with soloist Ralph Miller of Grosse Pointe. — EMU Pease Auditorium; 4 p.m. Sunday; admission free.

CABARET "POPS" CONCERT: Arthur Fiedler will take the Detroit Symphony Orchestra through their paces tonight with everything from Elgar's Pomp and Circumstance to selections from Chitty Chitty Bang Bang by Sherman and Sherman. Featured soloist will be native Detroit Arthur Krehbiel who will play Mozart's Horn Concerto No. 2 in E flat Major, K. 417. — Detroit Light Guard Armory, 4400 East Eight Mile Rd.; 8:30 tonight; tickets (in tables of four) $16, $12 and $8.

THE PASSION ACCORDING TO ST. JOHN will be presented in its entirety tomorrow afternoon at the Fort St. Presbyterian Church. It will be performed by the Detroit Chamber Orchestra and the Cantata Academy Chorus with featured soloists including tenor Edward Kingins, baritone Raymond Sharp, bass Peter Bickelman, soprano Imogene Bird and contralto Mary Riley. — Fort St. Presbyterian Church, Fort and Third, Detroit; 4:30 p.m. Sunday; admission free.

Roche gets $794,934:

GM top officers
Receive 18%
Pay-bonus raises

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. reports it paid a record total of $17.7 million in salaries and supplemental compensation to its officers and directors in 1968, an increase of more than 18 per cent over the previous year.

Highest paid among the executives was GM Board Chairman James M. Roche who received $794,934. This included a salary of $225,000, cash bonuses of $427,500 and contingent credits worth $142,434. The contingent credits are payments in stock, set at one-third of an executive's bonus payment, which may be taken in installments over five years.

GM said in a proxy statement notifying stockholders of its annual meeting May 23 that salaries alone for the 63 officers and directors totaled a record $4,936,916. Bonuses totaling $9,896,012 were added on to the salaries. And $2,906,572 more was paid via contingent credits.

By comparison, the over-all total paid GM's top management in 1967 was $14,906,481. This included $3,938,039 in salaries, $8,504,786 in bonuses and $2,463,656 in contingent credits.

A week ago, Ford Motor Co. issued its proxy statement,

Suspended
Teacher
To return

HIGHLAND PARK (AP) — Suspended Highland Park teacher Marilyn Marcks will go back to her classroom Monday and will be paid for the week of school she missed under terms of an agreement reached Friday.

Miss Marcks, 33, was suspended from the suburban Detroit school system April 10 after she told Detroit police a pupil indicated she had information on the shooting March 29 of Patrolman Michael Czapski near New Bethel Baptist Church.

The agreement was reached after a meeting between Miss Marcks, Supt. Paul H. Emerich and two lawyers.

(Emerich is a former superintendent of Ypsilanti Public Schools.)

Police, after questioning the student, said she had not witnessed the shooting and had no information on it.

Litter, bitter wind
Mark murder scene

In the Joan Schell and Mixer deaths, it is known the young women were in the company of a man or arranged for a ride with a man.

But in all the cases, the victims disappeared without any apparent fuss and commotion and were not heard of until their dead bodies were found.

The lack of clues has spurred widespread speculation as to the identity of the killers with most viewpoints tending towards a psychotic male college student or campus hanger-on. Two of the dead girls were Eastern Michigan University students and another an EMU frequenter.

"It's probably a safe assumption that the murderer was either a student of one of the schools or one of the fringe people who remain with the college crowd, even though they aren't controlled," said Dr. Ames Robey, director of the state center for Forensic Psychiatry at the Ypsilanti State Hospital. He said the person likely would be around the age of a college student because "this type of girl is unlikely to be picked up by somebody 35 or 40 years old."

One of the most baffling questions being asked by police is "are all five murders the work of one man?" Officials agree that there are both similar and dissimilar facts behind all five violent deaths. For instance:

—In addition to all the bodies being found within the same general rural area, they were left where easily found. A vehicle had to be used to take the girls there.

—Four of the five had connections with the universities. Misses Fleszar, Schell and Mixer students. Miss Skelton associated with some hippie elements at EMU.

—Vehicles are known to be involved. Miss Skelton and Schell were hitchhiking. Miss Fleszar disappeared while taking a walk. Miss Mixer had made arrangements for a ride home, and Miss Basom disappeared while walking home.

—Strangling was involved in four cases. Miss Basom died of strangulation, the others had items of clothing tied around their necks. Misses Schell and Fleszar died of stab wounds, Miss Mixer from shooting, Miss Skelton from a beating.

—All the girls, except Miss Skelton, were good or average students. She was a high school dropout and involved with narcotics.

—The girls were similar in physical appearance. Each had shades of brown hair, except Miss Basom. All were Caucasian, of slim build and between 13 and 23 years of age.

—Mutilation was present in one form or the other. Miss Basom had gouge and stab wounds, Miss Skelton had been assaulted, Miss Fleszar's hands and feet were missing, —All but Miss Mixer were found nude or partially nude and had been assaulted in some manner.

But, police point out, there are dissimilarities. Different actual causes of death, different types of assault, different backgrounds, and ages on each girl.

The appearance of a child's doll, found on a barbed wire fence adds another weird "Alfred Hitchcock" twist to the murders. Was the doll placed there as a joke?

Someone knows. Only, someone isn't talking about it.

Celtics reach NBA finals

With victory over Knicks

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics, written off as tired old men just a short time ago, are back in familiar surroundings—the title round of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Acting like the old pros they are, the Celtics won the Eastern Division playoff for the 12th time in 13 years by hanging on for a 106-105 victory over the New York

Knicks Friday night in steamy Boston Garden.

The Celtics, who have won the NBA championship 10 times since Player-Coach Bill Russell entered the league and became a defensive genius 13 years ago, managed only one victory in seven starts against New York during the regular season.

Boston finished fourth in the East and the cry went up: "The Celtics are dead." But the Celtics were playing possum in their own way, aiming for the playoffs.

After finishing off Philadelphia in the Eastern semifinals, the Celtics whipped the mighty Knicks 4-2 in the best-of-seven finals. Now Boston will mark time while Los Angeles battles Atlanta in the Western Division.

Los Angeles can wrap up the series in the fifth game, Sunday.

"I'm glad that's over," Russell said wearily after playing his usual 48 minutes in the finale against New York. "The Knicks were tough, a real good team. We had to go all out."

Russell scored 12 points, grabbed 21 rebounds, blocked a half dozen shots and set up teammates for baskets although he had to play cautiously after picking up his fifth foul at the three-minute mark of the fourth period.

Sam Jones, humiliated by being held to just 12 points by New York in two previous games, was the key man in nailing down the victory. The 36-year-old veteran, retiring after this season, scored 29 points, the last a crucial free throw with three seconds left.

The Knickerbockers' Dick Barnett (12) rides piggyback on the Celtics' Larry Siegfried in the third period of their NBA playoff game last night. Barnett committed an intentional foul on the play. (AP Wirephoto)

Doodling Figures

Oh, if everyone on the club could only hit that ball like Denny!

This comes from the fun with figures department, which notes with amusement that at his current pace, McLain will hit the spotlight as baseball's first .400 hitter since ... well, probably some kid brought up from the minors for a 2-for-5 stint at the end of last season.

So Denny's 4-for-10—an even .400—which is about as relevant to the Tigers' winning or losing as was loading the bases for three straight innings to Cleveland's victory the other night.

Which brings us to another goodie from the fun with figures treasure chest. Some people probably know this one, but it's still interesting enough to repeat:

It is theoretically possible for a team to bat an even 1,000 and not only come up winless for the season, but never score a run.

Not only that, but the fruitless attack the team could present under such theoretical circumstances could be chock-full of extra base hits. For instance, the leadoff hitter drives one up the right center alley — if an alley is lacking in right center, then he drives it up the left center alley. He goes all the way, except that he's cut down at home plate, so it's a triple and one away.

Batter number two rings a double off the leftfield wall, but he's cutdown trying to steal third. So there are two down.

The next three batters hit singles, unfortunately in such a fashion that nobody scores. So we have two down and the bases loaded. To this point there have been five hits in the inning.

Now comes the tricky play. The number six man smacks a liner toward third. The runner who was stationed at third is racing toward the plate. Baseball and runner meet part way down the line. The runner is out, and the batter is awarded a single.

At this pace, a team gets 54 hits a game — an unheard of total — while batting a perfect 1,000, failing to win and failing to score.

And now, on the more sobering side of the world of numbers: A friend of local little league baseball is happy to report a substantial increase in expected participation this season.

Whether because the Tigers' stunning World Series performance rekindled local interest in baseball or what, some 159 youngsters who never played before have signed up for the Ypsilanti Community National Little League.

Sad part about the whole thing is that many won't have the opportunity to play in the league. There's only room for 180 kids in the East Side program.

Those 159, then, will have to beat out all the kids returning from last year's program, or play in the Optimist League.

And perhaps there's nothing really wrong — many of the kids will benefit more from the "minor league" or instructional program. But then again, the process whereby the coaches and managers must be more and more selective could reach a level where kids capable of playing in the faster league are dropped into the Optimist program out of necessity.

Then, which may be right now, the community is ripe for a third little league program. Any takers?

Figures to be awed by are those of Texas A&I's sprinters. Sub-10-second 100-yard dash men are no rarity these days, but having three of 'em who'll put it down in the mid-nine range is unusual, you can bet.

And that's what Texas A&I has this spring. Earnest Haynes has a top effort of 9.3 seconds (wind aided), Bob Daniels has run a 9.5 and Dwight Harrison, a 9.6.

Numbers are also important to Marquette University these days. They're beaming over the figures 6-11, because that's the height of high school basketball all-American Jim Chones. And he's indicated he'll accept an athletic scholarship to Marquette.

Coach Al McGuire is, needless to say, very pleased: "He is potentially the finest student-athlete ever to be recruited here. This opens up a lot of new possibilities in coaching — if we can surround him with the proper tools."

McGuire continued by saying he felt Chones is "the best big man coming out of high school this year."

Chones led his St. Catherine (Racine) team to the championship of the Wisconsin Independent Schools Athletic Association tournament. He averaged 24.2 points for the season and 18.6 rebounds.

Mayo eyes O's From New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The Detroit Tigers, fresh from a rewarding stop in Cleveland where they defeated the Indians in two of the three games, opened a series today with the New York Yankees.

The Tigers had a day off Friday.

Earl Wilson and Denny McLain have been tapped for pitching duties in the weekend games with the Yankees, a bit of strategy aimed perhaps more at the Baltimore Orioles than at New York.

"Baltimore's the team to beat," said Manager Mayo Smith who said he wants to have Wilson and McLain ready for the series openers with the Orioles.

AL Roundup—

Senators blanked By Orioles again

By the Associated Press

Baltimore's pitching staff has Washington's number—and it's a great big zero.

Tom Phoebus fired a four-hitter at the Senators Friday night, blanking them 6-0 for the fourth straight shutout by Baltimore's staff against Washington this season.

Phoebus got plenty of support from the potent Baltimore attack which provided four more home runs, two of them by Paul Blair. The Orioles have won seven of their last eight games and slammed 16 homers over that span.

In other American League action, Boston belted Cleveland 10-7 and Minnesota took California 6-0 on a two-hitter by rookie Tom Hall. Oakland's game at Kansas City and Seattle's game at Chicago were rained out. Detroit and New York had the day off.

In addition to Blair's two homers, Frank Robinson tagged his sixth of the season, extending his hitting streak to 11 games, and Elrod Hendricks added a two-run shot.

The Orioles, fresh from a three-game, 30-run, 48-hit romp in Boston, kept the pounding up against the Senators. Blair homered in the first inning and then hit another in the third in almost the identical spot. Hendricks, had a two-run shot against reliever Casey Cox and leads the American League with a .435 batting average. Robinson's .419 average is third in the AL.

It was Phoebus' second shutout against the Senators. Baltimore hung three straight blankings on Washington last weekend.

Boston caught Fenway fever from the Orioles, who had just left town, and cracked five home runs out of the friendly confines of its park to batter Cleveland.

Ken Harrelson socked two and Tony Conigliaro, Rico Petrocelli and Carl Yastrzemski all had one each as Boston unloaded on Luis Tiant, ace of the Indians' pitching staff. Tiant, who absorbed his third defeat, was tagged for all five homers, five doubles and a single.

Petrocelli's homer was his third in three games and Yastrzemski's shot broke an 0-for-15 slump for the two-time batting champ.

Jose Cardenal and Russ Snyder connected for the Indians, who lost their eighth game in nine starts.

Hall, a slender left-hander, pitched Minnesota to its fourth straight victory, setting the Angels down easily. He allowed only a first inning triple by Jim Fregosi and a single in the seventh by Lou Johnson.

The Twins used clutch singles for all their runs. Walks to Harmon Killebrew and Bob Allison and singles by Leo Cardenas and Frank Quilici produced two runs in the second. Killebrew, Tony Oliva, Allison and George Mitterwald had consecutive singles for two more runs in the sixth. Then singles by Killebrew and Oliva combined with a pair of errors and a wild pitch gave Minnesota two more in the eighth.

The shutout extended Hall's scoreless streak against the Angels this season to 16 innings. "We're feeling him out," joked California Manager Bill Rigney.

The Indians' Duke Sims slides safely into second base as Boston shortstop Dick Schofield bobbles a wild throw. Boston won the game however, 10-7. (AP Wirephoto)

Spartans Defended By Duffy

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State football Coach Duffy Daugherty has flatly rejected a claim that Negro athletes are "exploited" at MSU.

It was contained in a list of grievances recited by Jason Lovette, a spokesman for some 60 Negroes attending a meeting of the university Board of Trustees Friday.

"Black athletes are exploited for four years of athletic participation and cut loose without proper education or a degree," Lovette said.

"We strongly encourage all our athletes—black or white—to complete their education," Daugherty said.

Daugherty said he is sure that the record of football players and all athletes—black or white—is better than the 40 per cent of all incoming students who fail to graduate.

Ypsilanti lasses eye swim titles

By BARRY LEVINE Press Sports Writer

Three Ypsilanti girls, Kim and Lynn McCullough and Robin Underwood, will be at Oakland University tomorrow, not for a tour of the new campus, but for a performance.

The performance is not slated for the University's Meadowbrook Theater either, as that particular complex doesn't cater to the athletically inclined.

And athletics are the specialty of this trio of lasses. To be more specific, the game is swimming, and they perform as if they had been at it for years.

Actually, they have: Lynn and Robin, about four years, and Kim, five. You see, Kim, the oldest of the group, is 11 years old, Lynn is 10 and Robin nine.

They all swim for local clubs, winter and summer, and tomorrow's meet is the beginning of the culmination of the season's hard work. The Michigan Association of the AAU (Amateur Athletic Union) is sponsoring the Junior Olympics meet.

Probably more accurately stated, this is a regional event, with performers from throughout the Midwest participating. The top individuals will be allowed to proceed to the national Junior Olympics in August at a site to be announced later. Last year it was in Knoxville, Tennessee.

This really is a big thing to these girls, for at least two reasons. One is that any time you put in the amount of work these girls have, you naturally want to reap the greatest possible rewards. But beside that, it is a great honor to be there, and they realize it.

In Willie's NL record game:

Mays fans in clutch

By The Associated Press

It started out as another memorable night for Willie Mays, but Frank Reberger and Al Santorini will never forget how it ended.

Mays set a National League record of 2,422 appearances as an outfielder when he trotted out to center for the start of Friday night's game between the San Francisco Giants and San Diego Padres.

Two hours and 40 minutes later, San Diego's Reberger choked off a ninth inning rally, preserved Santorini's first major league pitching triumph and nailed a 3-1 victory over the Giants—by striking out Mays with the bases loaded.

The victory snapped a six-game losing streak for the NL expansion club, beaten four times by the Giants during its tailspin.

The bases also were bulging with two out in the ninth at Los Angeles, but Dooley Womack failed where Reberger had succeeded. The Houston reliever walked Bill

Russell and Wes Parker, forcing home the tying and winning runs in a 5-4 Dodger victory.

The other games on the NL schedule—Pittsburgh at Philadelphia, New York at St. Louis and Atlanta at Cincinnati—were rained out.

Mays broke Max Carey's league mark of 2,421 games as an outfielder, set with Pittsburgh and Brooklyn from 1910 to 1929.

The Astros took a 4-2 lead into the ninth, but successive none-out doubles by Tom Haller and Bill Sudakis closed the gap before Womack, the fourth Houston pitcher in the inning, was brought in by Manager Harry Walker.

The move backfired when Russell and Parker drew the decisive walks from the former New York Yankees' bullpen specialist.

Run-scoring doubles by Norm Miller and Doug Miller off Don Drysdale in the seventh had given the Astros a two-run lead. Drysdale drove in the second of two Dodger runs in the fifth, but was thrown out at the plate trying to score on Willie Crawford's double.

The Dodger pitching ace and Houston catcher Johnny Edwards were shaken up in the collision at the plate.

Bruins bring up Rookie for playoffs

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Bruins will have another rookie in uniform when they try to even their National Hockey League East Division final playoff series with Montreal here Sunday.

Garnet Bailey, 20-year-old forward who was impressive in brief trials with the Bruins during the regular season, was added to the squad Friday for the fourth game of the best-of-seven series.

The Bruins added Bailey after X-rays disclosed that winger Wayne Cashman suffered a broken bone in his left hand in Boston's 5-0 victory Thursday night and will be lost for the remainder of the playoffs.

Trevino, Archer Deadlock for lead In Champions golf

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. — (AP) — U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino and masters title-holder George Archer, tied for the second round lead in golf's $150,000 tournament of champions, pick the man to win it — Lee Trevino.

"You have to pick Trevino," said the gangling, 6-foot-6 Archer. "He's the best driver on the tour. He says he only leaves the fairway to go to the phone. That's about right."

"And that's what you have to do to win on this course, stay in the fairway. The rough is really rough."

"If my driver stays like it was today," Trevino said Friday after shooting a second-round 68, four under par, "I'd say I like my chances very much."

"You've got to keep it in the fairway to win and I can hit it as straight as anyone else."

Trevino, seven shots back going into the second round, and Archer, who has a pair of 71s, are tied at 142 going into today's third round on the 7,114 yard, par-72 La Costa Country Club course.

Just one shot back at 143 are Gene Littler, who had a second round 68, South African Gary Player, 49-year-old Julius Boros, the PGA champion, and dynamic Arnold Palmer.

Player, Boros and Palmer all had second round 74s.

Dave Stockton is alone at 144 after a second round 75.

First round leader Dick Lotz, a 26-year-old Californian, dropped back with a 78 for 145, while bulky Jack Nicklaus shot himself out of contention with a whopping 80, one of the poorest rounds in years for the golden bear. He has a 36-hole score of 153, 11 shots off the pace and next to the bottom in the select, 28 man field.

Littler had a surprising round, going eight under par on the first 12 holes, then collecting two bogeys and a double bogey on the last six.

He included two eagles on his out-going nine when he matched the course record of 30, six under par. One was a 135 yard eight iron shot, the other a 75-yard wedge shot.

Tour rookie Sets record

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Rangy Larry Hinson, a 24-year-old tour rookie, cruised the rolling Killearn Country Club course in a record eight-under-par 64 Friday to take a five-stroke lead in the $35,000 Tallahassee Open golf tournament.

Hinson's two-day total was 70-64-134.

Hometown favorite Bert Yancey, who penalized himself four strokes when he found an extra club in his bag Thursday, fired a 69 Friday to tie Larry Ziegler of Boone Terre, Mo., for second at 139.

The first-day leader, Richard Martinez, soared to 76 and fell far back with a 142.

Ex-queen of lady golfers Denies plans for comeback

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Mickie Wright says she's playing as well as she has for years, but she still doesn't plan to try to win back her crown as queen of the women's golf tour.

"I don't have any desire to play all the golf I did a few years ago," the 5-foot-9 blonde said before starting today's second round of the $17,500 Lady Carling Open.

Miss Wright, who at 34 has already won 80 tournament titles for an all-time women's record, hasn't claimed a crown for 10 months.

But she's playing like the queen of old, and she grabbed a two-stroke lead in the first round of the Lady Carling with a four-under-par 68 Friday.

Miss Wright led Ruth Jensen and Kathy Whitworth, who fired 70s. Veteran Louise Suggs, helped by a 32 on the back nine, shot a 71, and defending champion Carol Mann slipped to a 73.

Miss Whitworth, current queen of the tour, was satisfied with her score because blustery winds raked the 6,380-yard, par 72 Cannongate Golf Club course.

She won the last three tour titles and victory in the Lady Carling would give her a share of the record of four in a row set by Miss Wright.

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER

A Gauge of Greatness

By RELMAN MORIN

The Associated Press

Writing to a friend, Dwight D. Eisenhower once mentioned Winston Churchill, George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Robert E. Lee as great men, and then went on to establish his own scale for weighing greatness.

"It embraced," as Relman Morin writes in his new biography, EISENHOWER: A GAUGE OF GREATNESS, "the qualities of vision, integrity, courage, understanding, and the ability to communicate."

You will be interested in Morin's judgment on how Eisenhower measured up to the high standards that he himself set. This is just one of the insights that Morin, a two-time Pulitzer prize winner, supplies into unknown and little known aspects of the life of the war time commander and peace time president.

Proud Achievement for These "Men From Equitable"

Leaders in Equitable's national sales organization, each of these representatives brought more than one million dollars of life insurance protection to his clients in the past year. In human terms, this production will help provide protection for families, secure homes, college educations and comfortable retirements. Because Living Insurance from Equitable means all that, and more, these men can take pride in their achievement. And Equitable is proud of them.

These men are delegates to the 110th National Leaders Conference at the New York Hilton Hotel April 20 through April 25. Mr. Arnold's office is located at 304 First National Building, Ann Arbor. Messrs. Karam, Dahms and Pratt have office at 310 First National Building, Ann Arbor. Mr. Lawrence's office is located at 61 N. Huron Street, Ypsilanti.

Cokes loses title in bloody battle

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cuban refugee Jose Napoles waited five years for his title shot and when he got it, the fight proved no contest as he hammered Curtis Cokes into submission after 13 rounds for the welterweight crown.

With his eyes swollen shut, Cokes simply couldn't see to continue fighting and although the boxer wanted to go on, manager Doug Lord asked the bout at The Forum Friday night be halted. "I knew about the 10th round when he didn't like those left hooks to the body that I was winning," Napoles declared through an interpreter. "I followed our plan of keeping Cokes in the center of the ring and not let him fight off the ropes."

Napoles, who now calls Mexico City his home, weighed 143 to 145½ for the champion, and stood an inch shorter. Cokes had two inches in reach but that didn't help. Napoles kept boring in with his relentless attack.

"I just couldn't get off," the ex-champion said through swollen lips. I just couldn't get started. Yes, I'd like a rematch."

Lord said, "you'll see a different Curtis Cokes in a rematch. If you don't, I'll retire him." Cuco Conde, the new champion's manager, said they had agreed to give Cokes a chance to get the 147 pound title back but it remained undecided if the fight would be in the United States or Mexico City.

A crowd of 15,878 at the Forum paid a gross gate of $195,480, a new California indoor record surpassing the $193,000 drawn by bantams Lionel Rose of Australia and Chucho Castillo of Mexico last winter.

A top lightweight contender before he grew into a welter, Napoles now has a record of 53-4 including 38 knockouts. For Cokes, trying to defend the title a sixth time, it was his 10th loss against 55 victories.

Ryun silences critics With victory in mile

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Jim Ryun had some proving to do, and he did it Friday in convincing style.

The great Kansas miler has been under criticism since his failure in the Mexico City Olympics last fall.

At last week's Texas Relays, Kansas Coach Bob Timmons used Ryun as a half-miler on the Jayhawks' sprint medley and two-mile relay teams. Kansas finished third in both events with Ryun running the anchor laps, although both times he got the baton trailing.

Friday in the 44th Kansas Relays, however, Ryun wiped out some of his frustration and silenced some of his critics. He switched to the mile to run on Kansas' four-mile relay team and stepped off a 4:01.2 mile to give the Jayhawks an easy victory over Kansas.

The Business Mirror:

Mutual funds appear to be modern indicator

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Remember the stock market theory that expounded the idea that the odd-lotter, or small investor, usually was wrong—that when he sold you could expect the market to rise and that when he bought a descent followed?

There was some truth in the theory—perhaps still is some truth in it—for the small investor often jumped on bandwag-ons just after the band ceased playing and just before the wagon collapsed like the one horse shay.

Well, it's still a bit early to say but there are some indications that the mutual funds, those powerful investors with total assets of more than $56 billion, are in somewhat the same role as forecasters.

The proof of the suspicion won't be known until the performance results are in later this year, but the stage is being set now. The scene to watch is the cash position of the mutual funds.

When the funds turn stock into cash it often means they are bearish. Confidence on the other hand, is demonstrated by committing the money to stocks.

At a January meeting of 2,500 professional investors, the word was spread there among fund managers that now was a good time to sell some stocks and build up that cash position.

The bearish belief was summed up by Fred Alger at the conference, produced by the Institutional Investor magazine. Alger, head of a fund that bears his name, stated in a panel discussions, "Cash is a good investment now."

A lot of funds either took the advice or had anticipated the trend, for they turned very cautious in January and bearish in February. Their cash positions rose sharply.

In January, the funds increased their cash positions by $600 million to more than $3.8 billion, or to 7.2 per cent of their assets. In February they added another $1 billion, bringing cash to 9.6 per cent of assets.

Now the significance, as pointed out by Standard & Poor's, is this: Three other times in the past decade the funds have urgently sought cash positions, in 1961-1962, in 1965-66, and from September 1967 to March 1968.

In each of these instances, S&P points out, the "high water marks in cash came at or close to ideal stock market buying points." The funds, however, were selling—or at least not buying.

The investment advisory service concludes that, "It would be unsafe, however, to base a conclusion—that stocks should be bought when funds' cash is abnormally high—on this evidence alone."

Character common
Block in mergers

NEW YORK (AP) — In every takeover attempt of one corporation by another, the skids are greased by at least one disgruntled employee. To some he is a Judas; to others, himself included, he may be a saint. He is always present.

This is the view of a man who advises companies fearful of being absorbed in the present day rash of conglomerations, or the merging and molding of disparate enterprises into one larger company.

Dr. Eugene Jennings of Michigan State University, who has spent most of his adult life studying and advising management, writing about it, and teaching it to students, offers this as one explanation of how mergers are accomplished.

The Judas, if he is to be called that, is a terribly abused individual, at least in his own viewpoint. He has nothing to lose if his company is taken over and so he supports the moves of the aggressor company.

He might be a controller or an engineer in a company where controllers and engineers never have a shot at the presidency. He may be in what Jennings calls a nonpriority or terminal route.

He is, nevertheless, an important and powerful man in the company. He knows the large stockholders and so can talk them into agreeing to the takeover. He also owns stock himself, and he has influence with the directors.

"In every instance," Jennings says, "there is one of these individuals. If he isn't immediately obvious to the aggressor compa-

Government policy
Often harms cycle

NEW YORK (AP)—While much has been learned in the past decade about regulating the economic cycle, there have been and still remain some serious errors and inconsistencies.

In the early 1960s, for example, voluntary limits were applied to wage and price increases. This was the guidepost policy, and it worked well for a while. Inflation was almost negligible.

It was the government itself that helped destroy this policy. In some instances it approved of increases that exceeded production. And heavy government spending caused relentless inflationary pressure to develop.

In 1966 a credit crunch threatened to plunge the economy into an abyss. It was a manufactured crunch, the result of an administration urging the economy to greater activity while the Federal Reserve was cutting back.

The consequence of these opposite policies was to build economic demand but to deny the economy the money to meet those demands.

This wasn't the only conflict in recent years between the Fed, which controls the availability and to an extent the price of credit, and the administration, which controls fiscal activities such as spending and taxing.

As recently as last year monetary and fiscal policy again were badly out of step with each other. While the administration was taxing money out of the economy, the Fed was pouring it back in.

Selling
Selves
Hardest

NEW YORK (AP) — Professionally skilled at convincing the public of the utility or value or pleasure to be found in thousands of products, today's advertising people seem, nevertheless, to have difficulty selling themselves.

Criticism of industry is abundant today. The insurers, automakers, tire manufacturers, drug companies, television producers, food packers and so on have been sharply criticized, sometimes unfairly.

Much of the criticism comes from a public that has grown much more aware of marketing practices through congressional investigations and Ralph Nader and their own unhappy experiences with products with better images than performance.

What makes the ad people especially uncomfortable is that they share in the criticism of any industry, because it is they who publicize the products and to a degree maintain the image.

Speaking this week in Washington before the 11th Annual Conference on Government Affairs, Walter Terry, chairman of the American Advertising Federation, commented:

"In spite of the many positive steps we and other advertising associations have taken, our critics seem to multiply and become more vocal."

According to survey:

Grad's value increasing

NEW YORK (AP) — Surveys and interviews show that job prospects in business for this year's bachelor degree candidates are more numerous and often more financially rewarding than ever before—if the draft doesn't come first.

The biggest salaries seem to be going to chemical engineering grads, followed closely by four other engineering groups: electrical, mechanical, metallurgical and aeronautical. Salaries for accountants are rising fast.

The number of job offers for master's and doctoral candidates may be somewhat lower this year, although it also may be too early to detect a trend. Some master's candidates in business report $12,000-a-year offers.

Not only are initial prospects good, but chances for relatively early promotion into managerial jobs is almost assured by some companies badly in need of young executives. Thirty-year-old vice presidents are common now.

The College Placement Council, Inc., of Bethlehem, Pa., notes a sharp increase in offers to bachelor degree candidates through mid-February, from 10,824 in 1968 to 12,248 this year.

For those seeking or holding advanced degrees the story seems a bit different. CPC reports only 1,762 offers at the master's level compared with 1,780 a year ago and 2,577 two years ago.

For doctoral candidates the number of offers declined to 459 from 485 a year ago and 592 two years ago.

This decline is not easily interpreted, for the egghead is now well established in business. A survey made two years ago of 4,500 managers by Executive Register, a New York personnel company, concluded that one in four holds a master's degree.

At the time of the survey, Shell Oil Co. had 680 Ph.D.s, and Scott Paper Co.'s management included 35 doctors and 178 masters, or double the number of six years earlier.

A survey just released by the Bureau of National Affairs, Inc., a private researcher and publisher of business and professional information based in Washington, D.C., shows a salary offers 5 to 6 per cent higher than a year ago.

It lists these as typical of the money offers to bachelor degree candidates: science, $9,184, up $363 in one year; business, $8,212, up $516; and liberal arts, $7,778, up $401.

Least too much significance be attached to these increases, please note that the cost of living also rose by roughly the same amount. In some fields, however, the increases far out-matched rises in living costs.

One of the main difficulties facing this year's class is the military draft.

Of 230 personnel and industrial relations executives queried in the BNA survey, 43 per cent said draft status was a consideration.

Car production resumes
Pace after settlement

DETROIT (AP) — Auto production picked up speed again this week following at least temporary settlement of a dispute which closed down Chrysler's big stamping plant in Sterling Heights, Mich.

The trade publication Automotive News estimated output for the week would wind up at about 171,398 cars, well ahead of last week's 160,329 but behind the 199,928 built in the comparable week last year.

about 30,000 workers in several of the corporation's plants, the industry also saw output reduced this week by a continuing strike which idled 8,100 workers at Chevrolet's St. Louis, Mo., assembly plant.

The Chrysler and Chevrolet tieups cost the industry an estimated 17,350 cars from the planned output for the week and also chopped 3,000 units from Chevrolet's planned truck production.

Truck output this week sagged to 39,275 short of last week's 41,882 and the year-ago week total of 42,243. Calendar year output rose to 617,425, well ahead of the 583,400 built at the comparable date a year ago.

Canadian auto production amounted to 21,310 units this week compared with 17,688 a year ago. Truck assemblies in Canada totaled 7,141 this week versus 6,445 a year ago.

The Chrysler and Chevrolet tieups cost the industry an estimated 17,350 cars from the planned output for the week and also chopped 3,000 units from Chevrolet's planned truck production.

Workers at the Chrysler Sterling plant, who had walked out in a dispute over safety standards, returned to their jobs on orders from United Auto Workers Union headquarters. The workers subsequently took a strike vote, approved the idea and are negotiating anew with Chrysler.

Calendar year output climbed to 2,757,875 cars, compared to an output of 2,824,976 at the same point a year ago.

Police get grant

Blind warned
By street buzzer

MARSEILLES, France (AP) — Sound signals were put into operation Friday at street crossings near a school for the young blind.

At one crossing, a bell sounds when the light is green. A buzzer sounds when it's safe to cross in the perpendicular direction.

The buzzer-bell signals are operated only when students are going or leaving school.

North Korea
Hunts weakness?

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The shooting down of a Navy reconnaissance plane is another example of North Korean attempts to find U.S. weaknesses, Marine Corps Brig. Gen. Alan J. Armstrong said Friday.

"If you show a sign of weakness, you'll certainly be tested again and again until you show you haven't lost your nerve," Armstrong told a news conference.

Armstrong, chief of research and development at the Quantico, Va., Marine base, said he was pleased that President Nixon ordered continuance of reconnaissance flights near North Korea.
